

LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE FOR PAY

5½ BILLION COST OF ROOSEVELT'S RELIEF EFFORTSTotal Includes Only Those to Date.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., April 14.—(Special.)—Financing of President Roosevelt's measure for depression relief so far submitted to congress will require the raising of more than 5½ billion dollars in various ways.

An aggregate of four billions is to be produced from sale of bonds issued by corporations set up by and controlled by the federal government.

Upwards of 1 billion 115 millions will be provided by direct appropriations from the federal treasury. Another 600 millions will be obtained indirectly from the treasury through increasing the borrowing power of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to that amount. Its present borrowing limit is 3 billions 500 millions.

More Projects Coming.

Additional projects still in the formative stage at the White House, including a vast public works construction program, call for from 1 to 6 billions of government funds.

The direct and indirect appropriations of funds from the treasury provided for in legislation already passed or now pending in congress aggregate more than 1 billion 615 millions, or 615 millions in excess of the maximum savings the President expects to accomplish in the annual cost of the federal government.

Savings so far effected are 600 millions—400 millions in reduction of veterans' benefits and 200 millions in reduction of the pay of government employees. Additional revenue so far provided for is the estimated yield of 250 millions from the beer tax.

Farm Mortgage Bonds.

The scaling down of farm mortgage indebtedness is to be financed through issues of bonds by the federal land banks aggregating not to exceed 2 billions. Payment of the interest on these bonds, but not the principal, is to be guaranteed by the government.

Theoretically the bonds will be obligations not of the government but of the independent land banks. Inasmuch, however, as the banks are creations of the government, which is a subscriber to their stock and supervises their operation, the government has assumed a certain degree of responsibility for their financial integrity.

In the event of default in the payment of the interest on these bonds the government would be compelled to pay the bondholders, and if payment of the principal were defaulted pressure would be brought to bear on congress to authorize payment from the treasury.

Other Loan Funds.

The farm mortgage bill, which has been passed by the house and is pending in the senate as a rider on the farm commodities bill, also authorizes a 300 million dollar increase in the borrowing power of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to provide the funds for loans to joint stock land banks up to 100 millions and loans to individual farmers up to 200 millions.

The government supplied the 500 million dollar capital of the R. F. C., and inasmuch as the government is the sole purchaser of R. F. C. debentures the money to finance R. F. C. operations comes out of the treasury in reality. To the extent that such outlays create a treasury deficit the funds are provided by borrowing on the credit of the government.

The bill calls for direct appropriations from the treasury totaling 65 millions—50 millions to enable the land banks to make five year extensions to farm borrowers and 15 million dollars to compensate the land banks for losses on reduction of the interest rate.

Home Owners' Relief.

The bill providing for the refinancing of small home owners' mortgages sets up a Home Loan Owners' Corporation, authorized to issue bonds up to 2 billion dollars, which will have the status of the bonds issued to refinance farm mortgages. Payment of interest, but not principal, will be guaranteed by the government. The same degree of responsibility in the event of default on principal as in the case of the farm mortgage bonds would attach to the government.

The government will be the sole subscriber to the capital stock of the Home Loan Corporation, which is not to exceed 200 million dollars. To provide these funds the R. F. C. borrowing power is increased 200 million dollars. This fund will come indirectly from the treasury.

In addition a direct appropriation

G. O. P. REJECTS COALITION PLAN
OF DEMOCRATSVotes to Frame Full Judicial Slate.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

In a stormy session last night the Republican county committee, by a vote of 42 to 12, rejected judicial coalition on the terms proposed by the Democrats and appointed a sub-group to frame a full Republican ticket for presentation to the judicial convention when it meets this afternoon.

The reaction of the Democrats will not be determined until this morning—their convention is set for 11 o'clock. One question last night in the Republican camp was whether the Democrats would modify their demands.

Indications were that they might offer nominations to the retiring Republican judges if they would run on the Democratic ticket. A candidate's name can appear only in one place on the ballot. The outlook was for interesting developments at both judicial conventions today.

Storm Center of Negotiations.

Judges Michael Feinberg and Stanley Klarkowski, Republicans, were the storm center of the negotiations which continued at intervals through the day.

The proposal of the Democratic organization was that all sitting circuit judges, with the exception of David M. Brothers, Republican, should be nominated on a coalition ticket. The division would be eight Republicans and twelve Democrats for the Circuit court.

The Democrats were to take two Superior bench places and would place no ticket in the field against Justice Frederick R. De Young, Republican, of the Supreme court, candidate for reelection in the 7th district.

Includes Those Opposed by Bar.

The Democratic proposal included five of the six Circuit judges who were not endorsed by the Chicago Bar association. Three of these are Republicans, Judges Feinberg, Klarkowski, and George Fred Bush. It was the insistence of the Democrats that all these three be placed on the ticket as the three placed on the ticket as the Republicans that led to the discord and disruption.

Strong opposition among the Republican organization against Judges Feinberg and Klarkowski has been manifested ever since the judicial nominations came up. They are the two Republican judges who voted for Democrats as members of the south park commission.

Want to Pick Candidates.

In the conferences with the Democrats the Republican steering group maintained that if the Republicans could coalition on the basis of 8 to 12 Circuit court places they should be allowed to pick their own candidates for three places occupied by the three judges not given the bar endorsement. The Democrats insisted on making coalition apply to all the sitting judges except Judge Brothers, on the ground that his health is not of the best.

Sitting in the various negotiating conferences for the Republicans were Edward F. Moore, Ald. Oscar P. Nelson (46th ward), George Barrett, and Paul Rothenberg; the Democrats were Patrick A. Nash, Court Bullitt Albert J. Horn, County Treasurer Joseph H. McDonough, Attorney General Otto Kern, Moe Rosenberg, and Michael Kenna.

Vote to Reject Offer.

When the proposals were carried back to the full Republican committee meeting in the Hotel La Salle there was a hot discussion lasting until a late hour. Alderman Nelson urged acceptance of the coalition proposal. Mr. Barrett, Charles Pence and others opposed it on the ground that while the Republicans were for coalition and wanted to place on the ticket the five Republican judges endorsed by the bar association they should be allowed to make their own choice on the three other places.

A motion from Ald. Robert R. Jackson to reject the coalition proposal on the ground that the Republicans insisted on naming their own candidates was carried 42 to 12. A committee was appointed to notify the Democrats that the proposal had been rejected because of "the effort of the Democrats to dictate the selection of the candidates to the Republican part of the ticket."

One of the first questions likely to come up today is the attitude which the sitting Republican judges will take. Through the votes of Judges Feinberg and Klarkowski four Democratic south park officials have been elected—Edward J. Kelly, president;

WHEN THERE'S FIGHTIN' TO BE DONE

2 Boys Shot to Death by Cuban Agents

(Copyright, 1933, by The New York Times.)

HAVANA, April 14.—Two youths, believed to have been Solon and Antonio Valdez Dausa, were deliberately shot down by government agents today following their arrest after a night of terrorism in which there were at least twenty-six bombings.

The shooting took place at 2:45 p. m. on the Avenida de los Presidentes, in the Vedado residential district. According to the usual custom here of applying the dreaded ley de fuga (law of flight), the students were taken to the spot in an automobile by secret service men, pushed out of the car and told to run. Sharpshooters, mostly Negroes, posted on a high cliff which overlooked both sides of the street at this point, opened a withering fire on the two youths. Escape was impossible.

Ignore Cry for Mercy.

Your correspondent, standing on a balcony at his residence, was an eyewitness of the killing of one student. The first fusillade missed the boy and he started running, and shouting, "Don't shoot any more!"

Despite his cries for mercy, a second volley followed. The victim, hit in the head by bullets, staggered, ran some twenty feet and collapsed as a third volley struck him.

The Negroes who had done the fatal shooting came down the side of the cliff with revolvers and rifles in their hands to inspect the body, after which they sattered off, unmolested by uniformed national police who arrived on the scene immediately.

Second Student Slain.

At the same time other snipers, posted further down on the same cliff, had shot the other student, who apparently ran in the opposite direction and was not in your correspondent's view. This youth, according to other eyewitnesses, was badly wounded. The secret service car which had brought them to the spot took him to the emergency hospital, where he died.

The Valdez brothers are said to have been the sons of Leon Valdez, employed in the paymaster department of the treasury, and were suspected of being connected with the A. B. C. students' revolutionary organization.

Several other young students among those picked up by police during last night's bombing campaign are reported to have been killed by government agents in different parts of the city. The police refuse to give out any information concerning the names or the disposition of those detained.

Guard Streets Into Havana.

Police armed with rifles stood guard along all streets leading into Havana tonight and halted all automobiles. Passengers were required to identify themselves.

her own vote and those of Trustees William D. McJunkin and John English for her motion to keep the schools closed at the end of the spring vacation period if means of paying employees are not found by then. Trustee Caldwell's motion to defer his previous motion for immediate closing until a meeting during the vacation period was carried, with President Taylor and Trustees Buehler and Joseph P. Savage voting for immediate action on it.

Myers Opposes Closing.
Trustee Lewis E. Myers echoed the words of several of his colleagues in objecting to closing the schools before Mayor Kelly, just elected, has a chance to wrestle with pay roll problems.

"To vote now to close the schools," Mr. Myers said, "would be an affront to the new mayor and would do an injury to both teachers and pupils. I am not willing to embarrass Mr. Kelly."

This speech, as were most of the others, was met with a burst of applause and cheered by the teachers. Then Trustee Caldwell introduced his bond issue resolution.

"This will pay the teachers 100 per cent and give us money to keep the schools open until the end of the year," he said. "It was drafted after I received secret information last night. Reliable sources say the plan will work."

Calls for Legislation.
Caldwell's resolution instructs the board attorneys to "prepare and cause to be introduced in the general assembly a bill or bills authorizing the board of education to issue $50,000,000 in bonds, the proceeds to be used exclusively to pay salaries of employees, and providing further that the tax rates of the educational, building, and playgrounds funds be reduced in a sum equivalent to the amount necessary to provide for amortization and interest payments on the bonds, said bonds to be sold or hypothecated by the board as in its judgment it sees proper."

"I have been advised from Washington," said Trustee Caldwell, "that there is great sympathy there for payment of salaries, but that they feel it should be for that purpose alone, and are afraid that funds advanced on tax warrants may be diverted to other purposes."

After the resolution was adopted, President Taylor appointed Trustee Caldwell as chairman of a committee to help draft the bills. Mr. Caldwell asked that teachers, board attorneys, and as many trustees as possible accompany him to Springfield on Tuesday to lobby for the measure.

West Parks Staff Gets Pay.
The 700 employees of the west park board received pay checks yesterday for the first two weeks of the present year. The checks totaled $61,000, as compared with a fortnightly pay roll of $110,000 which the preceding board was carrying last summer. That board has now been replaced by a Democratic board headed by Harry Joseph. As a result of the financial snarl in which the board headed by W. R. James left the park affairs, employees still have twenty months' pay coming to them. The pay day yesterday was their first since Christmas, and only the second in more than a year.

POSSE SEEKING MEN WHO ROBBED SHERIFF AND AID
Kankakee, Ill., April 14.—(AP)—Sheriff Albert Goodknecht and a posse of deputies tonight spread through a wooded area ten miles west of Kankakee in efforts to apprehend the three men who earlier today escaped with an automobile driven by Sheriff E. C. Wilson of Macon county after holding him up.

The Macon county automobile was recovered, mired in mud, on a rural road. The men were believed to be surrounded in a large field.

Sheriff Wilson and Policeman Dwight Truethood of Decatur were held up and the automobile taken from them as they cruised through Macon county attempting to apprehend three men who had robbed a store at Mendon, Ill.

Approximately four dozen men from Kankakee, Iroquois, and Ford counties were patrolling the roads surrounding the four mile square tract in which the men were believed to be hiding. Leaders of the posse said they would wait for daylight before attempting to "close in."

Family of Five Lose Lives When a Store Is Burned
Roanoke, Va., April 14.—(AP)—A family of five lost their lives and two from were overcome by smoke when W. E. Garland's general store at Buchanan burned early this morning. The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Layman, their son, about 16 years old, a daughter about 14, and a baby.

TEACHERS' PAY WOES MATCHED BY OTHER GROUPS

County, Forest Preserve Workers Among Them.

While they have not received so much attention in recent months, the woes and worries of other public employees in Chicago over their unpaid salaries are as great as those of the school teachers. When the teachers get their checks today or Monday, their final week of last June's salary, their pay arrears will be little greater than those of employees of other local governments.

The regular teachers are paid on a ten month basis. The next pay period due them after that now being paid started Sept. 12, when the schools reopened last fall. They are practically seven months in arrears, but so are the county employees and those of the forest preserve, whose pay day this week was for the first half of September.

Police Owed for 5½ Months.
Police, firemen and other city employees, including those at the semi-independent municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, have five and a half months' pay coming to them, having been paid only to Nov. 1. The Lincoln park workers are paid up to the same date. The sanitary district, paid up to the first of the year, owes its employees three and a half months' pay. The south and west parks represent the alpha and omega of the pay situation. The south park employees are paid to date. The west park board, under the administration of President W. R. James, got its affairs in such a financial snarl that the new board, headed by President Harry Joseph, is only now beginning to find out where the board stands. The pay day which the west park employees had yesterday still leaves twenty months' salary due them.

Status of Year Round Help.
A number of school employees are worse off as regards pay arrears than the general body of the teachers. Civil service employees, who work the year round, have nine and a half months' pay coming. Summer school teachers and those employed in some special branches have something more than seven months due them.

Another detail in which school employees have suffered more than those of other governments is that they have had more of their pay in tax warrants and scrip, which they either are still holding or have had to sell at a discount. The board has paid out $139,000,000 in scrip and warrants to employees since May, 1931. Teachers have received approximately four months' wages in this paper, and civil service employees nearly six months, which they had to sell at a discount if they were able to sell it at all.

If the various local governments were desperate to draw when tax collections failed it, it is plain that in view of the present delay in tax collections all of the public employees in the county would be in as desperate straits as are those of the west park board. An explanation of the varying degrees of pay arrears in the various governments may be found in two factors.

Backlog of Other Funds.
The first is the backlog of other funds on which a particular government has been able to draw when tax collections failed it. The second is the degree to which the different governments have been able to satisfy banks that their credit is a basis for the sale of tax anticipation warrants.

The two factors interlock, since the use of their financial backlogs has been an important force in the ability of those governments who possess them to keep their credit rating good.

The south parks, paid to date and with no bond defaults, head the credit list. This park board has had to sell no tax warrants to the public. When local governments began to slip into their present financial bog the park board had just sold large bond issues for building the outer drive bridge and other projects. Construction was stopped on these projects. The board has used the funds to meet maturing bond and interest payments, and in a lesser degree to keep salaries up to date.

The city government normally has the biggest cash backlog of any local government, including, among other funds, a traction fund of about $60,000,000. That backlog is practically depleted now, the cash having been replaced by tax warrants.

Mayor Kelly Outlines Plan to Follow Path of Cermak

Edward J. Kelly, Chicago's new mayor, began his first day in his new office yesterday with a modest statement of his policies. He expects to follow the footsteps of Mayor Cermak, and to lean upon the experience of the late mayor's advisers and members of the city council in dealing with the multitude of problems which face the city government.

Mayor Kelly, for the time being at least, will retain his post as president of the south park commissioners. He reached that decision, it was understood, at a conference of his political associates who drew him away from the breakfast table at his south side home and kept him engaged there for two hours.

"I expect to stay in the park board for a while, until A Century of Progress is in shape to carry along," said Mayor Kelly. "There's nothing in the law which prohibits me from holding both offices, and I believe this is a good opportunity to experiment with consolidation of governments."

Many Congratulate New Mayor.
The new mayor spoke to newspaper men in informal fashion, abandoning the chair behind his desk and sitting or standing at one side of his office. The office was filled with flowers, his desk was piled with letters and telegrams of congratulation, and crowds of well-wishers waited to see him throughout the day.

Mayor Kelly will take up the matter of beer regulation with members of the city council. Beer vendors in the city are now operating under an ordinance drafted under the direction of Mayor Cermak before congress adopted its beer legislation. The ordinance provides a $150 license fee for retail vendors of malt beverages from Jan. 1 to July 1. There is no provision as yet for extending this license period.

"I want the benefit of the experience of aldermen who have been discussing the situation," said the mayor. "In addition, some city department should test the beer to see that the public can't lose on them."

Chandler Accepts Post.
Mr. Chandler, a past president of the Union League club, chairman of the Illinois child welfare legislation commission under an appointment by former Gov. Emmerson, and a member of the law firm of Tolman, Chandler & Dickinson, was called upon and announced his acceptance of the appointment as head of the new committee. He is 52 years old and lives at 1110 East 53rd street.

"I'll expect the kind of cooperation you would give during a war," he said. "I will call a meeting tomorrow of those who will be selected to act as the nucleus of an executive committee and the work will start immediately."

Mayor Kelly then tendered Mr. Chandler the thanks of the city and pledged the assistance and organized help of all city officials and employees and the meeting was concluded.

people are getting what they pay for. It may be wrong even to hint at this, but they're selling beer so fast that it may not be properly aged.
Askers about any possible changes in his cabinet, Mayor Kelly replied: "You know I'm an organization man, and I'm sure the Democratic organization is satisfied with the Cermak cabinet."

Confers with Sargent.
One of his first visitors was Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, with whom he conferred for a half hour on the problem of paying public employees. The mayor accepted an invitation to attend the meeting called yesterday afternoon by the Sargent committee for the purpose of selling tax warrants for pay roll purposes.

"It's my belief that we should get Chairman Nash (Patrick Nash of the Democratic county committee) and some others and go to Washington to work with Senators Lewis and Dieterich on some plan to meet our overdue public pay rolls," said Mayor Kelly. "I haven't any particular plan in mind, but we'll use all the ingenuity we have, and I'm sure something can be worked out. None of us feels licked and we'll all keep working on the problem."

To Study School Situation.
He was asked about appointments to school board vacancies, and indicated that in that respect he will go slowly until he has a full grasp of the situation. The terms of Trustees Lewis E. Myers and Carter Blatchford have already expired and those of Trustees H. Wallace Caldwell and John English expire on May 1.

"I'm new to this job and must feel my way," he explained. "These positions won't be filled until we get the right men."

$75,000 FLAT AN ORPHAN NOW; TENANTS HAPPY

Receiver Gives It Up, So Rent Is Free.

BY AL CHASE.
Five Kenwood families are living contentedly and comfortably, with no rent bills to worry about and with warm radiators to cheer them, in one of the strangest real estate anomalies that Chicago's muddled mortgage bond mess has so far developed—an orphan flat building.

Apparently no one wants the forty-five year old structure at 4454-56 Oakwood avenue, which was valued at $75,000 in 1929. The owner long since has faded out. Three weeks ago both the janitor and the receiver followed suit. The real estate agents have marked it off their lists. The bondholders refuse to advance a dime and even the bondholders' protective committee flatly balks at an attempted reorganization.

Receivers Turn It Down.
For several weeks the court has tried to get a new receiver, but no receiver, even of the 1933 professional type, wants anything to do with the Kenwood orphan.

"Nobody wants it," said an attorney. "It's a pathetic forty-five year old orphan, with no one willing to spend a dime to save the poor thing."

Meanwhile the five families living in the building, although knowing nothing of the financial intricacies of the usual co-op apartment, are successfully running it on a cooperative basis and hoping they'll be left alone.

"We're all chipping in a dollar or two a week to buy coal," said Mrs. Hughes H. Lee, who has a first floor suite. "And one of the tenants on the third floor, who had an arrangement before our building became an orphan to get his rent free for looking after the boiler, still keeps us warm."

"Of course, the windows aren't washed and the halls aren't kept as clean as they should be, but, on the other hand, we don't have any rent to pay, so we should worry. We're warm and we're comfortable and we all hope no one'll adopt our orphan."

$20,000 Loan in 1929.
The owner was Balbino Abdisho, a rug cleaner at 2545 Lawrence avenue, whose plant recently was wrecked by an explosion. Whiteside & Wentworth underwrote a $20,000 bond issue against the building in 1929. Interest defaulted and the property was foreclosed in 1931. Raymond H. Droege was made receiver. A few weeks ago he was dismissed and a successor receiver is now being sought.

A well known real estate firm was asked to act, but refused. Others were offered the job. No one will take it. Meanwhile it was suggested that the bondholders' protective committee reorganize the property. It refused.

According to McKinley & Price, attorneys, one of their clients who owns a third of the $20,000 bond issue already has put $1,800 into the property and refuses to do more.

"I'm tired of feeding money into that property and anyway I haven't got any more," he said.

In addition to the Lee family the four other tenants are Mrs. Mary Robertson, Charles Miller, Ada Moyer, and Jonathan Itaska. There are three vacant suites.

BERLIN PROTESTS BRITISH ATTACK ON HITLER RULE

Cabinet Resents Remarks
Made in Commons.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, April 14.—The German government today instructed Dr. Leo von Hoersch, ambassador to London, to protest immediately and energetically against the criticism of Germany in the British house of commons yesterday by Sir Austen Chamberlain, Winston Churchill and others. The Britons asserted that recent developments have shown that Germany should not be given equal right with her neighbors.

The Boersen Zeitung, edited by Walter Funk, Nazi press chief, comments bitterly on the lack of understanding of Anglo-Saxon "blood brothers" for the German national revolution.

"This cannot be surpassed by the lack of understanding of any 'nigger nation' in the British dominions," the article said.

Assails English Gentlemen.

The newspaper demands that "the traditional English gentleman is the victim of dark forces which vainly try to mask Britain's enslavement by French politics."

German newspapers quoted Chamberlain's remarks in the British house. "This is no time for revision of the treaty of Versailles because of the present state of mind in Germany," Sir Austen said. "This new spirit of German nationalism is the old Prussianism with an added savagery of racial pride and exclusiveness."

A German government spokesman expressed his indignation because Sir John Simon, Britain's foreign secretary, did not object to the criticisms.

"Just imagine any member of the reichstag raising the Irish issue on the floor—don't you suppose the German foreign minister would have called him down?" he exclaimed.

Dispatches from Warsaw today said that August Ulla, German senator from Lodz, protested to the ministry of the interior against recent anti-German demonstrations in Poland. The Polish government assured the senator that energetic measures will be taken to prevent the recurrence of such incidents.

Golf Club Bars Jews.

BERLIN, April 14.—(AP)—The Wannsee Golf club, one of the most fashionable in Germany, with most of the diplomats in Berlin as members, decided tonight not to accept Jews as members any longer. The resignation of Herbert Gutmann, who has been president since the club was started, was considered imminent.

French Crowd Beats Nazis.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, April 14.—Four Nazis set out from Germany early this morning on an auto tour of the French battle fields. They got as far as Metz, where a crowd noticed the automobile was carrying a Nazi swastika flag.

The crowd urged the Nazis to remove the banner. The Nazis refused, claiming that the flag was their national emblem and that they had a right to carry it. The crowd then set upon the auto, tearing the flag off and beating the occupants. Police, according to the Havas agency, intervened and took the Nazis to the police station.

The visitors were advised to go back home.

Nazis Beat Czech Woodcarver.

(Copyright, 1933: By the New York Times.)

PRAGUE, April 14.—Joseph Drechsler, a Czech woodcarver, who has lived in Schmiedeberg, Germany, for 20 years, was found in a grave condition today in a field just across the border in Czechoslovakia. According to the newspaper Sozial Demokrat, he was assaulted by German Nazis.

A few days ago, according to the newspaper, Drechsler was attacked in his home by storm troopers, kidnapped, beaten until his teeth were knocked out, his skull fractured and the sight of one eye destroyed. Then he was smuggled across the Czech border. He is now in a hospital in Ironov.

GERMANY'S NEW DIPLOMAT TO U. S. REBUKES CONSUL

Reads Statement to Newspaper Men.

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—With a face flushed red and ill concealed anger in the blue eyes that gleamed behind his glasses, Dr. Hans Luther, the new German ambassador, strode brusquely across the parlor of his suite on the Bremen today and abruptly took from the hands of Dr. Otto Kiep, German consul general in New York, a written statement that Dr. Kiep was reading to the assembled journalists.

"I can read my own statements," Dr. Kiep, astonished, looked at the ambassador and then stepped back while Dr. Luther read the formal statement commenting on his arrival.

Hope to Control All Opinions.

The incident took place after Dr. Kiep had made many efforts to prevent the ambassador from granting the usual interview to the press.

Dr. Luther, the former president of the Reichsbank, is not a member of the Nazi party. He received his appointment because of long public service. The incident on the Bremen today generally was accepted as an indication of the strenuous efforts by the Hitler government to control all opinions and limit information concerning its activities.

Dr. Kiep had told the reporters before they boarded the cutter going down the bay to meet the Bremen that Dr. Luther would give no interview. He intended to take the envoy from the ship in a tug. When the reporters reached the ambassador's suite they found Dr. Kiep blocking the door. He waved them away. They prevailed upon him, however, and entered.

Greeted Reporters Cheerfully.

Dr. Luther stood gripping the back of a chair. Dr. Kiep stood near by, with a sheet of paper in his hand. He said that the envoy would shake hands with each reporter and then would board the tug. Dr. Luther bowed and said repeatedly: "Good morning, gentlemen!"

"I am happy to meet the press," he added. He paused and gazed down at his hand, gripping the chair back. A reporter asked: "Is it true that the reason you are being hurried ashore is that there is some fear of a Jewish demonstration against you?"

Dr. Kiep stepped forward in agitation and exclaimed: "No, No! Herr

EX-FOLLIES GIRL ESCAPES LOVER'S PRISON IN FRANCE

Tells Paris Police She Was Beaten.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, April 14.—With a story that she had been held a prisoner, beaten and made to drudge in an isolated farmhouse 20 miles from Paris, Mrs. Ethel Coval, a former Ziegfeld Follies girl, escaped today with the aid of the gendarmes. She told a harrowing tale of suffering at the hands of Rene Pettitjean, erstwhile romantic lover.

Pettitjean, a Frenchman who lived in New York for 13 years, told police he had not mistreated Mrs. Coval, but admitted she had been discontented. Authorities tonight brought the woman to Paris.

It was her third attempt to escape, she said. She added that on both previous occasions she was beaten and locked in a compound which included a four acre clearing in which a hut was built.

Mrs. Coval, who is 35 years old, had separated from her husband, Charles E. Coval, a magazine publisher. She told the police she met Pettitjean a year and a half ago and came to Paris when he promised her a "romantic existence and a future marriage."

She refused to file formal charges against Pettitjean, who has not been held.

Mrs. Coval's maiden name was Ethel Florita Robben.

Husband to Cable Money.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, April 14.—Charles E. Coval, a former publicity writer, now editor of Park Avenue Merry-Go-Round, said tonight that he had no word of the release of Mrs. Coval.

The editor said he did not know a Rene Pettitjean. He added he would cable money for passage to this country to his wife.

RELIEF 'CLIENTS' QUARREL OVER THEIR FOOD DOLE

Tenant Finds His Landlord Gets Larger Order.

As a result of a difference of opinion between Tony Mazur, 3043 West 40th place, and his tenant, Jerry Thomas, also of the above address, Mazur was in police custody yesterday and Thomas, the tenant, was in the county hospital with a fractured skull.

Like many thousands of others in Chicago, both Mazur and Thomas were, and still are, on the emergency relief commission's list of "clients" as the case-workers term them. They were thought worthy of relief by the commission's investigators although Mazur owns the four flat building at the 40th place address and Thomas, according to the police, had a job working nights.

Families Live Comfortably.

All went well and the Mazur and Thomas families were living very comfortably, indeed, until Thomas noted that whereas he received an order for $6.76 worth of groceries every two weeks in addition to milk and coal, Mazur, his landlord, received a $8.58 grocery order every two weeks, also in addition to milk and coal.

Now, the grocery order, as issued by the relief commission, has taken on the proportions of currency in certain districts of Chicago. Police records show that these grocery orders are readily accepted by gin and moonshine purveyors and some grocers, according to reports, will pay $2.50 cash for a $5.00 order.

According to the story told to the Brighton Park police Thomas felt that he was unjustly treated because his landlord was getting a bigger grocery order than he. He spoke to Mazur about it and some mild feeling developed. It was merely mild, that is, until Thomas hit upon the happy expedient of getting even by holding out a portion of his rent money.

Bangs Head Against Wall.

So, on Thursday night, landlord and tenant stood at the top of a long flight of stairs and argued. Carried away by his indignation, police said, Mazur finally seized Thomas' head and banged it against the wall three or four times. Thomas fell down the flight of stairs. They took him to the hospital and Mazur to the police station.

Chicago's bill for supplies distributed to families from relief funds was approximately $8,000,000 in 1932 according to recent estimates.

NIGHT PARADE

Chicago saw the first illuminated circus parade since 1929 last night. Accompanied by the glare of torches, gleaming satins of women riders, and massive elephants, the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus came to town.

Forty traffic policemen were stationed along the line of march and five mounted policemen preceded it. Police estimated 50,000 persons saw the parade.

The procession, which formed at the Coliseum, where the circus opens this afternoon for a 15 day show, came north in Wabash avenue to 9th street, west in 9th street to State street, and North on State to Adams street. From there it went north in La Salle to Wacker drive, east on Wacker drive to State street, south on State street to 9th, then down Wabash to the Coliseum.

Retribution

CRIMINAL COURT.
Frank Plazzi, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge James F. Fardy.
Gus Langolf, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Frank Plazzi, 18 years old, was found guilty of murder last evening by a jury in Judge James F. Fardy's court. The judge overruling a motion for a new trial sentenced Plazzi to 14 years in the penitentiary in accordance with the verdict of the jury. The sentencing of Plazzi wipes out the gang of youthful robbers, who on Dec. 22, 1931, shot and killed Policeman James J. Caplin in an attempted robbery of the Beach View Gardens cafe, 804 Wilson avenue. Six other members of the gang, who were arrested soon after the murder are already serving penitentiary sentences. Plazzi escaped and was only arrested recently.

Chicago's bill for supplies distributed to families from relief funds was approximately $8,000,000 in 1932 according to recent estimates.

3 WORKERS DIE, 2 HURT AS AUTO AND TRUCK CRASH

Vehicle Turns Over; Pins
Riders Underneath.

Two men were killed and one was fatally injured and two others were seriously injured yesterday when the heavy truck in which they were riding overturned after colliding with an automobile at Bloomingdale road and Nordica avenue. The men killed were Rocco Cirone, 60 years old, 644 North Christiana avenue, and George Slay, 48 years old, 2512 North New England avenue. Albert Piddley, 56 years old, 3828 North Newcastle avenue, died early today from his injuries.

Cirone and Slay, pinned under the overturned truck, were taken from the dead man, and Joseph Beckert, 58 years old, 4856 West North avenue.

All Railroad Employees.
All five men were employed by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad and were riding in a company truck at the time of the accident. The driver, Oscar Dhooge, 4824 Hutchinson avenue, who escaped with minor injuries, was taken into custody by police.

The occupants of the other automobile, who were not seriously injured, are Albert Kleinhuizen, 42 years old, 4905 Cornelia avenue, and his brother, Bernard, 24 years old.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that adequate lighting be installed at the intersection of Hibbard road and Lake avenue in Wilmette, where Mrs. Mary Jane Ford, 28 years old, 530 Surf street, was killed Thursday night.

Auto Leaves Road.

The deaths of Cirone, Slay and Piddley, with two others, brought the Cook county motor toll for 1932 to 242. The other victims:

Swan Nelson, 42 years old, 5543 Chicago avenue, a stone-cutter. Died last night in St. Anne's hospital of injuries received on March 22 when he was run down by a truck at Madison and Clinton streets.

The number of automobiles stolen in Chicago in the four months ending March 31 was 9,882, according to a report made yesterday by Acting Capt. Philip Parodi, of the stolen automobile section of the police department. The number stolen in the similar period ending March 31, 1932 was 11,305. Cars recovered in the two periods were, respectively, 5,453, or 55.4 per cent, and 10,137, or 90.4 per cent.

MOTORISTS WITH OLD TAGS TO BE ARRESTED TODAY

500,000 Vehicles Reported Unregistered.

RY HAL FOUST.
Illinois highway police today will begin arresting motorists without 1933 state license plates. There are approximately 500,000 vehicles in the state that have not been registered this year.

Secretary of State Hughes issued a warning ten days ago that arrests would begin on April 15. Since this warning was published 250,000 motorists have applied for licenses. A survey of Chicago boulevards a few days ago showed that many expensive automobiles, some chauffeur-driven, were still with 1932 plates, although many small and old cars had the 1933 license.

Police Here Lenient.
In the city hall yesterday there were long lines waiting at the state and at the city motor license windows. Car owners rushed clerks to get their new plates and windshield stickers before their week-end recreational drives. Police Commissioner Allman said that as long as this rush of business continues his department will postpone any campaign of enforcing the license laws.

In Springfield, A. R. Millard of the automobile bureau in the office of the secretary of state, reported a lineup twenty-five yards long in front of his application window. He said that in the last few days a thousand sets of plates were issued from this window daily, while mail applications were received at the rate of 30,000 a day.

As police were preparing for wholesale arrests on the license laws, Chief Justice Somers of the Municipal court and Judge Green of the Traffic court were taking steps to protect the motorists from hardships at the hands of Chicago's policemen.

Judge Green told nine police captains he had summoned for this purpose that he will exercise his contempt authority should he receive any more reports of law-abiding citizens being jailed for minor traffic infractions. The chief justice wrote a letter to Commissioner Allman with suggestions for enforcement of the traffic laws "at the least inconvenience to the public and to the department."

Except in more serious cases, Judge Somers directed that motorists able to identify themselves as residents or employees in Chicago should not be required to furnish a cash bond for traffic offenses, including license cases, and that even where identification is uncertain, or where the motorist does not work or live in Chicago, the bond should not be higher than $10 for state cases and $5 in city cases.

Letter Starts Police Quiz.
High bonds, as indicated by recent testimony in the Traffic court, are an effective weapon for "shaking down" motorists and the police jail is an effective kangaroo court punishment for those who refuse to be shaken.

The investigation of the police jailing of motorists was started by Judge Green a week ago when Herbert L. Brickson, a salesman, 6048 Nevada street, wrote to The Tribune's Voice of Traffic of having been transported in a patrol wagon and held in a cell for four hours after an arrest on a minor traffic violation.

556 NEW RECRUITS JOIN CHICAGO FORESTRY ARMY

The new forest army camp at Fort Sheridan received an additional 556 recruits yesterday and the total now in the camp tents is 1,249.

Exercises designed to harden the men for their work in the forests were given in the morning. The recruits also received first aid instructions and were then given some actual work on roads in the reservation.

The men at Fort Sheridan are part of the 250,000 who will plant forests under authority of legislation recently passed at the behest of President Roosevelt. They are to receive $30 a month and living expenses. From Chicago will go a total of 4,000 men taken from the relief rolls.

SUPER SHELL'S
NEW PRICE!

Never before sold at less than a 3¢ Premium...

When motorists paid $8,513,783.68 above the price of ordinary gasoline for Super Shell, it was usually the big cars that used it. Their owners cheerfully paid 3 cents extra per gallon and got their money's worth in extra performance.

Today, Super Shell sells at the price of ordinary gasoline. In price, it's everybody's gas. And everybody's going for it.

"I never realized the difference a premium gasoline could make in my Chevrolet. It's great to be able to get it at the regular price. Super Shell does give me extra mileage, too, a double saving."

"Super Shell is the best gasoline I ever paid 3¢ extra for—and I've usually used premium fuels in my Cadillac. Knocking off the premium will save me real money this year."

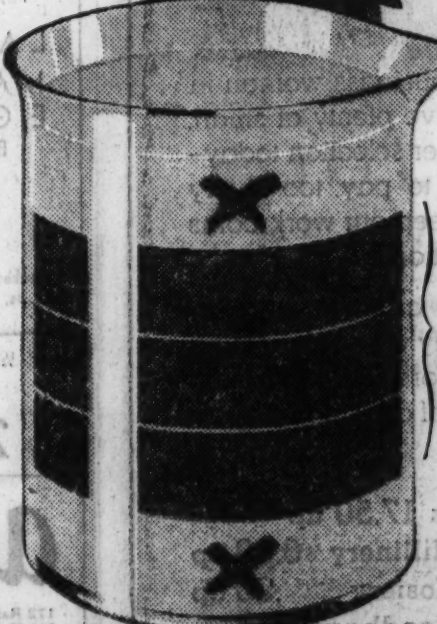

We asked 112,327 of you motorists—in our service stations and in your homes—the qualities you wanted in a gasoline. Super Shell has been made to fit your exact requirements. It has the hair-trigger starting . . . the split-second acceleration . . . and a higher anti-knock rating than any gasoline to which ethyl has not been added.

Super Shell is especially made to give extra miles per gallon. By a special process of refining Super Shell, all waste parts have been removed.

Change to Super Shell today. It is colored golden. Results will prove its economy.

If you prefer an ethylized fuel, it is obtainable under the name of Super-Shell Ethyl. This is a double premium gasoline at a single premium price.

HUMAN MIRACLE OF LIGHT ENTERS NEW ERA AT FAIR

Science Delves Way Into Radiant Mystery.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Light! This most significant word in human language, capturable but still an ultimate mystery, is to be written in a new glory of achievement at a Century of Progress exposition. From that moment on the morning of June 1, when a faint beam of light from John's star, Arcturus, is caught by photo-electric cell in the giant telescope at Yerkes observatory, transformed and sent over wires to open the light display of the exposition, the story of light will be one of the basic features of the exposition, as it is basic in the progress of civilization.

"Black Light" of Stratosphere. Light which reveals the subvisible world, light which penetrates the hardest steel, the lights at the bottom of the sea, and the bluish-purple, almost black light of the stratosphere, ultra-violet, infrared, and many other forms of radiation, may be studied, as well as the wonders of display and decoration which the engineers are planning.

Prof. Auguste Piccard is planning to soar in a metal gondola under a balloon ten miles or so above Soldiers' field to find out what the sky looks like and to capture some cosmic rays for further research into that mysterious source of energy. When that research succeeds the modification of atoms contained in six drops of water would be enough to light Chicago for several hours, according to the French color professor.

Thousands of years ago the horizon of Chicago was lifeless and cold. Sun, moon and stars cast their light on vast ice fields. The glaciers moved on and mankind came out of its dark night with the discovery of fire. Smoke, curling up from wigwags, candles and whole oil lamps in log cabins, kettles, and the blaze of electricity and the effects of hidden quiescent fires.

Curious Arrangements Used.

Lights of every description, arc, incandescent and gaseous tubes, will be used in the illumination of the exposition. The buildings are windowless, so that all sorts of curious arrangements of hidden and colored lights will be used inside.

It is estimated that more than 2,000 kilowatts of electrical energy will be required to light the thousands of outdoor light sources. More than 15,000 incandescent lamps will be used. For building illumination there will be one thousand floor lights. Supplementing these will be 375 combination street and floodlighting standards of different designs.

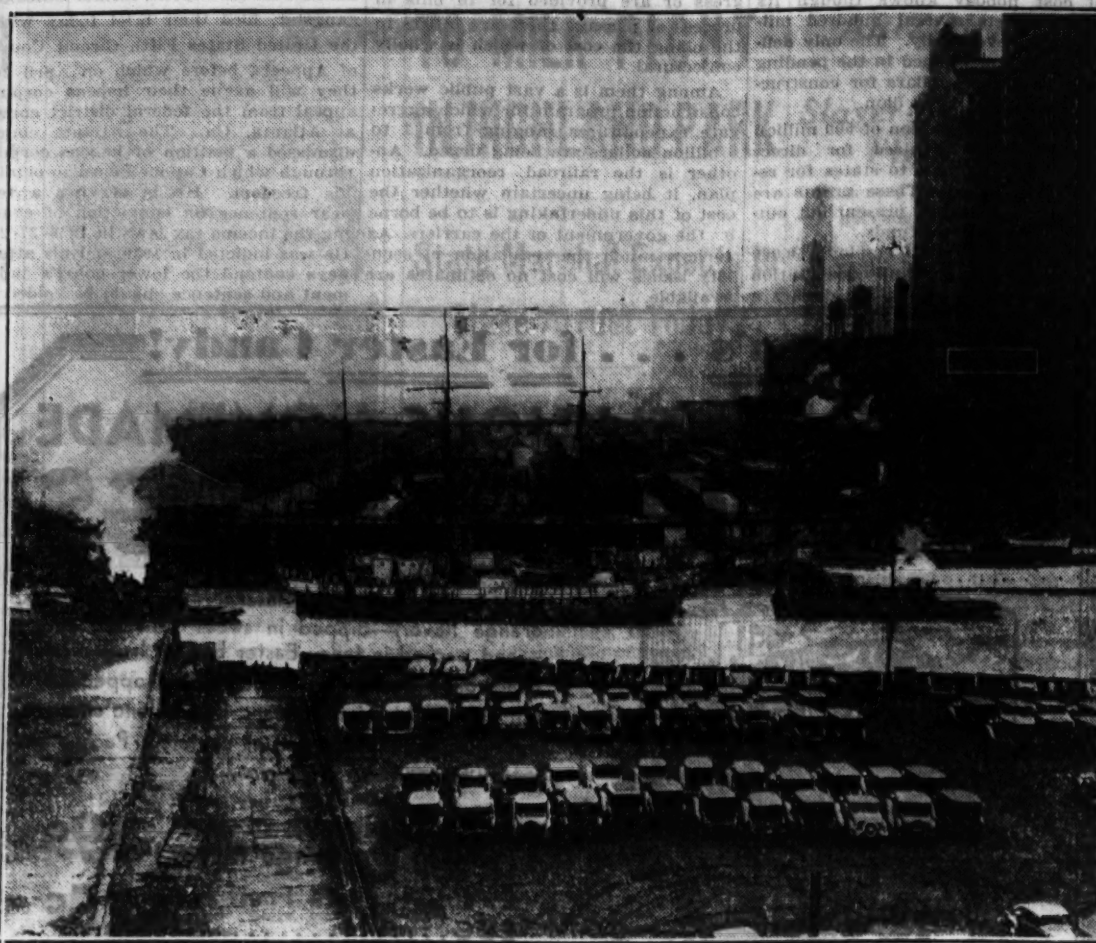

One of the spectacular effects calls for a battery of 24 arc searchlights having a total light output of 1,200,000 candle power. Colored lights will be used for special displays, such as fountains, but the brilliant coloring of the buildings flooded with carefully controlled clear light will produce the magnificent effects desired.

New Lighting Era Forecast.

A staff of General Electric and Westinghouse engineers, headed by W. D'Arcy Ryan, has designed the lighting plans. Mr. Ryan, who is director of the illuminating engineering laboratory of the General Electric, thinks that this exposition may mark the beginning of a new period of outstanding achievement in light engineering.

AGREE ON OPERATING TEMPORARY STREET CAR LINE TO THE FAIR

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, as president of the south park board, announced yesterday that the board and the Chicago Surface Lines had agreed upon a plan for street car service to the entrance of the World's Fair. On a temporary track, for the duration of the fair only, street cars will cross the Illinois Central railroad on the 23d street viaduct, turn north to 18th street and thence west to 18th over the L. C. right of way to the present car lines at Indiana avenue and 18th street. Several civic organizations, including the City club, have been advocating the extension eastward of the Roosevelt road tracks. This proposal has not met with favor from the south park commissioners.

ways been milestones in lighting progress. Already installations have been made that not only satisfy the most exacting demands for utilitarian and decorative light, but also provide the vital ultra-violet rays to maintain the health of those deprived of adequate sunshine as well as to stimulate the growth of animal and plant life. The exposition of 1933 will not only recall the advances during the last 100 years but will give us many glimpses of new developments and refinements that will be commonplace in a few years.

The vital relation between light and human welfare suggested about 1895 that the study of light and its properties would be placed on a scientific basis. The response to this demand initiated a distinct branch of science designated as illuminating engineering and dealing with research, design and application in the use of light.

Measurements Are Devised.

Instruments were designed to measure the intensity, quality and distribution of the light flux and the physical characteristics of the light sources themselves were determined. An intensive study of lighting requirements was carried out. Today our laboratories are organizations of engineers, physicists, psychologists, artists, architects and other technicians, each investigating the relation of illumination to his requirements in order to insure utility, economy, eye comfort, safety, beauty in our lighting systems.

"Lighting has progressed in quality and efficiency until today we are erecting buildings without windows or skylights. Baseball, football, tennis and other outdoor sports are carried on successfully at night. Ever increasing illumination is justified by added convenience, speed, safety and in manufacturing plants by greatly increased production and reduced spoilage of material in process. The illuminating engineer has had much to do with sight preservation and has been instrumental in the reparation of lighting codes for schools, factories, streets and automobile headlighting."

FRIGHT CAR KILLS BOY OF 13.

Daniel Joseph Gilligan, 13 years old, 6225 South May street, was crushed to death yesterday by a coal car shunted along a switch track in a railroad yard at Abingdon and 20th streets. Daniel and his brother, Mickey, 11 years old, had started across the railroad yards to the yard of their dog, which died a few days ago.

Will Be Displayed

The City of New York, the bark which carried Admiral Byrd on his south pole expedition, was towed yesterday afternoon from the Michigan avenue bridge, where it has been moored all winter, to a Century of Progress grounds. The vessel, which is anchored in the south lagoon off 23d street in the fair grounds, will be on exhibition there during the fair.

QUEST DIES IN HOTEL LOBBY. Joseph Jeremiah Noonan, 48 years old, died yesterday of heart disease in the lobby of the Legion hotel, 29 South Des Plaines street, where he had lived for a week.

FATHER AGREES TO OPERATION ON 2 HIS CHILD'S EYE

Mother, However, Still Is Doubtful.

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—Hours of argument have at last won over the father of two-year old Helen Vasko of Hastings, whose parents until today both stood obdurate against pleas to let her undergo an operation necessary to save her life.

John Vasko, a recent immigrant said today that he is willing to have the little girl's left eye removed because of the malignant tumor, growing in the retina of the eye, which the division of the Supreme court says that he must. But the mother of the child still holds out.

"The lawyer talk to me long time," Vasko said in broken English. "He say, maybe best thing to have operation. So I say, 'I guess so, too,' but my wife, she say she don't know what to do."

Maurice Zucker, an attorney who entered the case as a friend of the court, talked John Vasko into giving his consent to the operation if the Appellate division, before which an appeal from the Westchester Children's court is pending, sustains the lower court and orders the operation. The Appellate division's decision is expected the first of next week.

The Vasko family has been annoyed by hundreds of sightseers and cranks since their opposition to having the operation performed became known a few days ago. Crowds walked and drove through the muddy streets on the outskirts of Hastings to the Vasko house, trampled the yard, and even peered through the windows. Yesterday the Vaskos in desperation barricaded the doors and windows and threatened to pour boiling water on any one who came within range. That kept the crowds back.

Vasko told the police that the crowds and the excitement had made his wife and little Anna, Helen's twin, both ill. A doctor called on Wednesday night and found Anna with a fever of 105. Yesterday the door was barricaded against him, but Vasko said little Anna had recovered.

MEET MONDAY TO DISCUSS BILL FOR PARKS MERGER

Representatives of 28 civic organizations, park officials, and several members of the state legislature will meet Monday noon with the public affairs committee of the Union League club to discuss the legislative measure to consolidate Chicago's park systems in a single district.

Among those invited to attend the conference are Gov. Horner, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, publishers of all Chicago newspapers, Fred Sargent, head of the citizens' committee; D. F. Kelly, and John McKinlay.

The legislative measure to be considered is house bill 486. Representatives Elmer J. Schnackenberg, who with Representatives Michael P. Henneberry and M. F. Browner is sponsoring it, will explain the bill's purposes. The bill was prepared under the direction of the Illinois commission of taxation and public expenditures, of which Mr. Schnackenberg is a member.

MINIMUM WAGE ACTS FAVORED BY PRESIDENT

Cotton Industry Condition Cited by Executive.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today declared himself strongly in favor of passing a federal minimum wage bill, if one can be drawn within the limits of the constitution.

The President, at a press conference, asserted that while the great majority of manufacturers and industrialists are quite willing to pay a reasonable and living wage, a small minority in many industries have refused to do so.

This has resulted, he pointed out, in setting up competition which the others in industry cannot meet without slashing wages also.

Majority for Fair Wage.
The President cited the case of the cotton industry, saying that while 90 per cent of the industry is agreeable to the paying of fair wages a minority of eight or ten per cent refuses to sign up, making an agreement on the matter impossible to obtain.

If something can be done, within the constitution, to force the minorities to go along on minimum wage agreements it should be done, the President said.

Later in the day Mr. Roosevelt held a conference with four senators who have been aiding him on labor and social problems. Senator Robert F. Wagner (Dem., N. Y.) said after the meeting that the President stood for an extensive public works program to provide jobs. Senator Robert M. La Follette (Rad., Wis.) said he had urged the President to agree on a six billion dollar program.

Discusses Wage Law.
Both senators said they had discussed the minimum wage law with the President and that there was a general agreement that some bottom scale for each industry ought to be established, with federal boards set up in the industries to rule on wage controversies within each industry and to limit the hours of work. They were not prepared to answer the earlier question of the President as to the constitutionality of such proposals.

The President at the press conference said he expected to offer his program for temporary railway relief at the beginning of next week. He verified previous reports that in the beginning the government will do little more than appoint a federal rail coordinator who will aid the railroads in eliminating waste, and that the major administration program involving consolidations and readjustments will go over until the regular session of congress in January.

QUIZ MOTHER ON BABY BURNED TO DEATH IN CRIB

Mrs. Anna Lewis Anderson, of the George hotel, 1455 East 60th street, was freed yesterday afternoon after police had questioned her concerning the death of her son, Gerald, five months old, who was fatally burned in his crib on Friday night.

Mrs. Anderson, who was visiting friends in the hotel when the fire started, said that she had no idea as to the cause.

Police said they found that a cigarette had burned the mantel directly above the baby's crib, and expressed the belief that a spark may have set fire to the bed clothing.

An inquest into the death was continued until April 27. After Mrs. Anderson had fainted on the witness stand, she told police that her husband, Dr. Robert Anderson, hospital interne in Galveston, Tex., had never seen the baby. They separated six months ago, Mrs. Anderson said, for financial reasons.

Must Fix Bottom to Prices and Wages, Is Miss Perkins' View

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—Fix a bottom to falling prices and you start the nation's buying power up the high hill to prosperity. This is the pill which Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today urged the employer to swallow.

The pill may be bitter, she admitted; but it will be beneficial, she predicted; to the employer as well as the employee.

"We should, as a people," she declared today, "fix a bottom to the fall of wages; for this fall is serious as it reduces the buying power, and is, therefore, dangerous to industry itself."

And the constitutionality of this fixing a minimum wage? Miss Perkins sees the question mark; believes she has the answer to it.

"This is an emergency," she points out, "and emergency measures must be used."

As to Minimum Wages.
Granted the constitutionality of the Black bill fixing hours of labor, there should be, she believes, a similar emergency constitutionality for any proposal fixing the wages of labor.

Whether that should appear as an amendment to the Black bill, as a separate statute or as some other form of legislation, Miss Perkins is not definitely committed; but that a minimum wage law should be speedily and temporarily enacted, she is convinced.

Then somebody at today's press conference wanted to know the labor secretary's specific position on a plan to mobilize industry and get men back to work.

"I believe in no one panacea," she declared, "but in the struggle of every battle which closes in from a variety of points."

Suggested Plans for Relief.
Her mail bag is filled with more than 2,000 letters suggesting plans. They all fall, she estimates, into about half a dozen general propositions.

1. Government control of all industry. This proposal, she revealed, is often listed as Nos. 3 or 4 in a series of proposals, in which, the writer adds, "if all these fall, then turn completely over to the government completely."

2. The Kent plan, or some modification of it: A subsidy, allowance, loan (the word varies) by the government to private industry in return for certain regulations of prices, production, and profit.

3. Creation of industrial boards of labor not unlike the war boards to act as temporary arbiters between industries, with powers to fix quota of production, wages, etc. This plan was first advanced about a year ago by Bernard Baruch of wartime experience.

4. Plan for permanent future of America. This contemplates a combination of industry and agriculture with settlement of people on unused lands, but with an industry near by; that is, farm eating and a little cash wages. This proposal, Miss Perkins admitted, had an academic ring in front of the marketplace at night, but "it does not come to grips with the immediate future."

Numerous Public Works.
5. Enormous program of public works. Miss Perkins sees much of value in this plan, particularly if the works are not monumental buildings but small, better housing projects, community sanitation enterprises, and the like.

6. Barter. This, the labor secretary argued, is practical only for small groups near farm areas. "It is better than not eating, but it is not a proposition that people in a highly integrated, highly complicated society can look forward to with any enthusiasm."

Reserving judgment on the plans, Miss Perkins said they were a "significant indication" of the reaction of thoughtful Americans to present day problems.

Many of the letters, she revealed, were signed "The Forgotten Man." But he did not appear to sponsor any one plan more than another.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—Fix a bottom to falling prices and you start the nation's buying power up the high hill to prosperity. This is the pill which Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today urged the employer to swallow.

The pill may be bitter, she admitted; but it will be beneficial, she predicted; to the employer as well as the employee.

"We should, as a people," she declared today, "fix a bottom to the fall of wages; for this fall is serious as it reduces the buying power, and is, therefore, dangerous to industry itself."

And the constitutionality of this fixing a minimum wage? Miss Perkins sees the question mark; believes she has the answer to it.

As to Minimum Wages.
Granted the constitutionality of the Black bill fixing hours of labor, there should be, she believes, a similar emergency constitutionality for any proposal fixing the wages of labor.

Whether that should appear as an amendment to the Black bill, as a separate statute or as some other form of legislation, Miss Perkins is not definitely committed; but that a minimum wage law should be speedily and temporarily enacted, she is convinced.

Then somebody at today's press conference wanted to know the labor secretary's specific position on a plan to mobilize industry and get men back to work.

"I believe in no one panacea," she declared, "but in the struggle of every battle which closes in from a variety of points."

Suggested Plans for Relief.
Her mail bag is filled with more than 2,000 letters suggesting plans. They all fall, she estimates, into about half a dozen general propositions.

1. Government control of all industry. This proposal, she revealed, is often listed as Nos. 3 or 4 in a series of proposals, in which, the writer adds, "if all these fall, then turn completely over to the government completely."

2. The Kent plan, or some modification of it: A subsidy, allowance, loan (the word varies) by the government to private industry in return for certain regulations of prices, production, and profit.

3. Creation of industrial boards of labor not unlike the war boards to act as temporary arbiters between industries, with powers to fix quota of production, wages, etc. This plan was first advanced about a year ago by Bernard Baruch of wartime experience.

4. Plan for permanent future of America. This contemplates a combination of industry and agriculture with settlement of people on unused lands, but with an industry near by; that is, farm eating and a little cash wages. This proposal, Miss Perkins admitted, had an academic ring in front of the marketplace at night, but "it does not come to grips with the immediate future."

Reserving judgment on the plans, Miss Perkins said they were a "significant indication" of the reaction of thoughtful Americans to present day problems.

Many of the letters, she revealed, were signed "The Forgotten Man." But he did not appear to sponsor any one plan more than another.

5 1/2 BILLION COST OF ROOSEVELT'S RELIEF EFFORTS

It is estimated that these taxes will yield from 800 millions to 1 1/2 billions dollars annually.

How much the Tennessee valley development and Muscle Shoals project will cost nobody knows though its scope suggests several hundred million dollars eventually. The only definite amount mentioned in the pending bill is 10 million dollars for construction of the Cove creek dam.

A direct appropriation of 500 million dollars will be required for direct grants of federal aid to states for relief of destitution. These grants are to be not loans as at present but outright gifts of federal funds.

The undertaking to employ 250,000 men in reforestation and conservation work is to cost 250 million dollars a year, to be financed by direct appropriations from the treasury.

In addition to these projects which either have been authorized by congress or are provided for in bills in process of passage there are others in the offing the cost of which is wholly conjectural.

Among them is a vast public works construction program for which aggregate expenditures ranging from 1 to 6 billion dollars are being urged. Another is the railroad reorganization plan, it being uncertain whether the cost of this undertaking is to be borne by the government or the carriers. As to how much the regulation of security issues will cost no estimates are available.

An advance of funds from the treasury of 100 million dollars is authorized to enable the secretary of the treasury to subscribe for the preferred stock of the federal savings and loan associations, for which this bill also provides.

Some estimates of the amount required for this purpose run as high as 100 million dollars. In addition the treasury would assume approximately 30 million dollars owed by co-operators on cotton to be taken over by the government.

Theoretically the treasury would be reimbursed for these advances from the proceeds of the processing taxes assessed on basic farm commodities and paid indirectly by consumers. It

MARKETS QUOTE LOWEST EASTER PRICES IN 25 YRS.

Hams, Eggs, and Poultry on Bargain List.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Food shoppers in Chicago and suburbs searching the decorative Easter time markets today for week-end groceries will find prices of nearly all items on the shopping list lower than for any Easter in 25 years.

Fine hams, eggs and poultry, new potatoes, flour, large sized citrus fruits and some of the fresh vegetables are lower than a week ago. These and some two score other edibles are selling from 5 to 20 per cent lower than prevailing prices at this season a year ago.

Egg consumption this week-end is expected to be almost double the normal consumption in the Chicago area. Ordinarily housewives in the metropolitan area purchase about five million eggs for use in a three day week-end.

Special parties, widespread use of eggs for coloring, and the breakfasts or dinners using quantities of eggs are expected to swell this consumption to nearly 10 million eggs in Chicago and suburbs by Monday night.

Potato Prices Lower.

Low prices are being quoted in many stores today on lamb, ham, and fowl for the Easter dinner. Unusually heavy shipments of new potatoes from Texas this week caused a drop of about one cent a pound for tender red potatoes from the southland.

Careful shoppers also will find bargains in family flour in many stores today. Special Easter bakery goods also are attractively priced.

Following the trend of the week in the wholesale fruit markets, most stores today are selling the extra large California oranges at exceptionally low prices.

California growers are completing a program to prevent shipment of any but the best grades of oranges to eastern markets, and "cull" oranges are now being sold in California for as low as 2 cents a dozen. Increased production of grapefruit, oranges and lemons in Florida also insures Chicago consumers continued low prices and fine quality for all citrus fruits this spring.

More Melons from Mexico.

Added shipments of early melons from Mexico are to be found in some of the city's markets. Cuban shipments of fresh pineapple have been delayed about three weeks, causing the present supplies from Porto Rico to command firmer prices than would otherwise prevail at this season.

Among the perishable foods found to be somewhat higher than usual in today's market are hothouse tomatoes, large heads of iceberg lettuce, the choicer lots of celery, and new cabbage. Heavy shipments of fine Louisiana strawberries continue to keep retail berry prices the lowest in many years.

Extra stocks of fresh candies, in fancy Easter packages, are selling at new low prices, some of them selling at about half the price of year ago.

U. OF C. SALARIES CUT; PROFESSORS LOSE EXTRA PAY

A 10 to 20 per cent reduction in salaries in the executive, administrative, and clerical departments, effective May 1, was announced yesterday by the University of Chicago. This is the first salary reduction on the Midway since the beginning of the depression, according to Vice President Frederic Woodward.

Faculty members are not included in the direct cut, but their incomes will be affected indirectly. Heretofore many members of the faculty have supplemented their regular salaries by extra work during the summer quarter in the University college, which is downtown, and in the home study department. This extra work is now eliminated, all the teaching hereafter to be included in the regular work and without the additional compensation.

No figures or estimates were available as to how much would be saved by the retrenchment.

(Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.)
PARIS, April 14.—With a prospective deficit of 4,178,000,000 francs [$165,866,600 at the current exchange], the French budget was approved by the chamber of deputies today. The budget had been under discussion for nearly a year and must still be debated by the senate. The year's expenditures are $6,092,000,000 francs [$244,988,632,000], the revenues at $4,434,000,000 francs [$165,866,600]. If business improves during the year, the deficit will be less, as the turnover tax and other taxes will increase.

ROME, April 14.—Finance Minister Guido Jung today presented to the chamber of deputies the budget for the next fiscal year, from July 1, 1933, to June 30, 1934.

A deficit of $153,000,000, or about $76,000,000 more than was estimated for this year, is expected. As compared with this year, it is calculated that expenses will increase $28,000,000 and that revenue will decrease $48,000,000. Total expenditures are estimated at $1,065,000,000, against a total revenue of $912,000,000.

DAIRY FIRE LAID TO MILK FIGHT IN HIGHLAND PARK

State Marshal Expects to Make Arrest Today.

Chief Deputy State Fire Marshal Paul E. Bertram charged last night that the fire which swept Henry Krueger's independent dairy farm five miles south of Mundelein, early yesterday morning, "was started by incendiaries as the result of milk trouble."

The fire destroyed twenty-one blooded Jersey cows, 150 chickens, a horse, four buildings, twenty tons of hay, and 100 bushels of barley. Total damage was estimated at $200,000. Krueger, who was slightly injured when a blazing timber fell on him as he led a horse from the barn, told officials that he had seen an automobile enter the barnyard shortly before the fire broke out and that he believed incendiaries were responsible.

Threatened in January.
Deputy Marshal Bertram revealed that Krueger had been threatened on Jan. 24 for entering the dairy business in Highland Park. Krueger, he said, began selling milk there in November. He opened with seven customers and now has more than fifty. Bertram said the man who threatened Krueger told him he represented a concern which was peddling milk in Highland Park. "He told Krueger that he was taking away too much business there and that if he didn't stop he'd be taken care of. Krueger has given us a good description of this man," Bertram added.

Expected Arrest Today.
Bertram said that he would begin a search for the man today. He will be aided by Deputy Sheriff Russell McBride and John Froelich, assigned to the case by Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county. His arrest may take place today, according to Bertram. Krueger refused to talk with others about the alleged threat. In telling of the fire he revealed that his 4 year old daughter, Annabelle, awakened at 4 a. m. yesterday and told Krueger that she had dreamed all their cows were being destroyed. A half hour later the fire was discovered.

DAIRIES OPEN WAGE PARLEYS WITH DRIVERS

Negotiations between the dairy companies of Chicago and officials of the milk wagon drivers' union were opened yesterday in the Hotel La Salle, to consider wage scale adjustments and other details of the contract between the two groups.

The existing contract, which expires May 1, provides a basic wage scale of $40 per week, plus commissions.

A joint statement issued by Dr. E. D. Walsley, president of the Burden's Farm Products company, representing the dairies, and Steve Sumner, secretary of the drivers' union, said that "we discussed general conditions only, on a very friendly basis. No definite demands were made by either group."

OPEN RUTH JUDD SANITY TRIAL IN ARIZONA COURT

Slayer Waging Final Fight for Life.

Florence, Ariz., April 14.—Special.]—A nervous, distraught Winnie Ruth Judd, stubbornly ignoring questions put to her by alienists who may testify she is sane, began her final battle for life in the old-fashioned Pinal county courtroom today, a short distance from the Arizona prison, where she is condemned to die on the gallows next Friday morning.

Ironically, she began her fight to escape death on Good Friday and the ninth anniversary of her marriage to Dr. W. C. Judd, who was with her in court.

She began the day smiling as she left her prison cell, but the smile faded to flaming anger when, a moment after she took her seat in the courtroom, a photographer's flash bulb flared.

Selection of the jury proceeded slowly. Hearing of testimony will begin tomorrow.

It was as if the jury were voting Mrs. Judd's sanity who will be hanged next Friday. If that many hold her insane the verdict will result in life imprisonment in the state hospital for insane.

Mrs. Judd sat in apparent ignorance of what went on about her, nervously twisting and wrapping about her hands a handkerchief and occasionally glancing at the audience, in which sat her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell.

Her 13 year old father described Good Friday as "a sad day" for the McKinnell family, but expressed happiness that the Arizona pardons board had granted his daughter another week of life, postponing the execution from April 14 to April 21, thereby enabling her to make a final fight for life.

Waiting to testify as state witnesses were Dr. Joseph Catton, San Francisco, and Dr. Paul Bowers.

Dr. George Stephens, former head of the state insane hospital at Phoenix, who testified Mrs. Judd was insane, said Mrs. Judd had confided to him during the noon recess that she was going to commit suicide.

NEW U. S. ENVOY ESCAPES A TRAIN WRECK IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, April 14.—(AP)—A half hour before the guarded train carrying Josephus Daniels, new United States ambassador to Mexico, was due to pass, a section hand discovered a broken rail north of Monterey today.

It was believed the rail had been warped by a sudden change in temperature. It was replaced while the train was held up for 30 minutes.

Mr. Daniels sent his greetings and those of President Roosevelt to the Mexican people from Monterey. He said he would work to continue friendly relations developed by his two predecessors.

WITNESSES TELL OF HUGE BRIBES PAID BY BRITONS

Reveal Sabotage Plot "in Case of War."

MOSCOW, April 14.—(AP)—A Russian witness charged tonight that L. C. Thornton, British engineer, organized a plot which, in case of war, would have paralyzed the large Moscow electric station serving the Kremlin, important factories, and powerful wireless stations.

This accusation was made by L. A. Sukoruchkin, who was manager of the Moscow station and is now one of the Russians facing trial with six British engineers of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical company on charges of sabotage and espionage.

Thornton denied the charge. He said that never had he so much as talked to Sukoruchkin.

Tells of Huge Bribe.

In his confession the Russian plant manager asserted that he had sabotaged machinery and had concealed defects in equipment. He did so, he said, on orders Thornton had given him in December, 1932, and he assured the court that he and Thornton had planned to disable the station completely in the event of war.

For his work, Sukoruchkin said, Thornton paid him 25,000 paper rubles and 350 gold rubles.

(Translation of these sums into American money is difficult, as there is no official quotation. The value of the old gold ruble was about 51 1/2 cents.)

In reply to the charges Thornton said that although Metropolitan-Vickers machinery was used in the plant and he visited it occasionally in the course of his work, he never talked to Sukoruchkin and gave him no money.

Charges Briton "Loafed."

Today's session of the court was occupied for the most part by direct accusations of bribery made by Russian witnesses, who asserted they had been hired to operate and interfere with the operation of electrical equipment supplied by the Metropolitan-Vickers company.

One of the dramatic incidents of the day was a heated demand by A. W. Gregory, a little redheaded Welshman, that he be accorded an opportunity to protect his professional reputation against attacks made on the witness stand by Y. I. Ziebert.

Ziebert testified that Gregory and the other defendants looted on the job when they were installing oil switches at the great new power station at Dnieprostroy. Gregory, who speaks no Russian, did not understand this testimony, but it was translated for him by Allan Monkhouse, Moscow chief of the electrical company and also one of the defendants.

Shouts at Judge.

His face scarlet, Gregory leaped to his feet and raised his hand as though he were a pupil in a schoolroom. He faced Presiding Judge Ulrich.

"I want to face this man," he cried. "He has made statements against my reputation and you accept them without any proof. Is that fair to me? Is that justice?"

The protest was translated. Through an interpreter the judge replied: "The court has listened to the witness and now it is your privilege to make a statement. Afterward it is the court's business to determine who shall be believed."

Defends His Work.

Gregory strode to the stand. He shook his finger in Ziebert's pale face and, in a trembling voice, made his statement.

"I went to Dnieprostroy to erect the largest switches ever made by our company and the largest ever installed in Russia. I left Moscow with special orders from my office to give them my personal attention because none of our switches here ever has broken down and we wanted to be sure of these."

"Although it meant much more work for me, I supervised every part of the work for the sake of my own reputation and that of my firm. I leave it to technical experts [here he pointed to several experts seated near the judge] as to whether I did that work in proper time or whether a shorter time would have been enough for the quality of the work."

"Make Russia Spend Gold."

One of the witnesses who testified that he had received bribes was A. T. Lohman, chief of the electrical department of the Ivanovo power station. He brought the name of Charles Nordwell, another of the British defendants, into the testimony for the first time in connection with an alleged bribe of 5,000 rubles.

Lohman said that he had entertained anti-soviet ideas and had complained to Nordwell about low living standards in Russia.

"If you want to improve your condition," he quoted Nordwell, "you must act now. You must cause important damage so that Russia will have to spend more gold. Above all, you must be sure that this power plant is paralyzed in case of war."

Nordwell denied all charges.

Claims Money Was Loan.

Alexey Dolgov testified that Thornton had paid him 3,000 rubles, which he looked upon as a bribe for concealing a defect in electrical machinery installed by Thornton's company. Thornton admitted having given the money, but explained it as a loan, saying Dolgov had requested assistance in buying an apartment.

Threw Iron Into Machinery.

Shifting to alleged counter revolutionary acts at Zuevka electrical station on the eastern slope of the Urals, the prosecution called M. L. Kotlyarsky, one of the defendants. He is 29 years old and manager of the station's turbine section.

Kotlyarsky testified that William MacDonald, another of the accused Britons, paid him 1,000 rubles for plans for the enlargement of the station to conceal defects of the Metropolitan-Vickers machinery and to damage one of the turbines.

"On MacDonald's instructions," the Russian said, "I threw a piece of iron into a generator, which disabled the turbine for ten days."

MacDonald confirmed the Russian's testimony.

SCHOOL BOARD WILL PAY $394,000 TO CONTRACTORS

The board of education voted yesterday to pay $394,398 in damages, interest, and other costs to contractors on the Seem, Lane, and Steinmetz High schools as a result of the cessation of building a year ago. The work was stopped when the school board was unable to pay the contractors. Yesterday's award covers expenses incurred by contractors directly as a result of the board's inability to keep up its payments. The damages to be paid in 1931 building fund tax warrants will be made at the time construction is resumed, probably May 1.

Near by, somewhat abashed, stood 7-year-old Buddy Conant, Virginia's sister, who had snapped the handcuffs on her while playing "marshal."

ILLINOIS GIVEN $3,625,000 NEW RELIEF BY R. F. C.

State's Needs Defended Before House Critics.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., April 14.—(Special.)—While Illinois' inability to meet its own relief problem was being defended today before a critical house committee, the Reconstruction Finance corporation gave further evidence of its understanding of the state's problem in the form of a new relief loan amounting to $3,625,000.

It was Allen T. Burns of Chicago, director of the National Association of Community Chests, who assumed the role of defender for Illinois at a hearing before the house banking and currency committee on the Wagner-Lewis relief bill providing half a billion dollars for direct relief grants to states.

Mr. Burns told the committee the Illinois situation is so desperate that only a "figurative pistol held to their heads" persuaded Chicago bankers last June to purchase gasoline tax anticipation warrants issued for relief purposes.

Sale of Tax Warrants.

"Illinois issued tax warrants against a gasoline tax in the state," said Mr. Burns, telling of the state's efforts to help its own tide. "They had to sell these warrants, and they had the greatest difficulty in realizing on them."

The bankers of Chicago figuratively took these warrants with pistols held to their heads. Gen. Dawes and the president of his bank actually had to tell the bankers of Chicago that their own lives were in danger unless they took these tax warrants.

"It is wrong," Mr. Burns asserted, "to charge that Illinois has just been lying down." He described in detail the efforts made by the state to cope with the problem. The legislature, he recalled, has authorized the expenditure of $35,000,000 in relief activities. The Wagner-Lewis bill, he averred, "was the

LEGION POST SENDS A GIFT TO HUNGRY CHILDREN'S FUND

When the big guns were thundering in France in 1917 and 1918 American doughboys were traditionally generous to the French children caught in the backwash of hostilities. Yesterday Burlington Route post, No. 387, of the American Legion proved that the old spirit of lending a hand to the youngsters still flourishes when it sent a check for $5 to the Hungry School Children's fund to help buy lunches for hungry boys and girls here in Chicago.

The influence of Good Friday may have had something to do with the fact that yesterday was a good day for the hungry fund. The total received, swelled by one anonymous check for $20 from a regular but modest contributor, reached $61. And $61 will feed more than 500 children who otherwise wouldn't get a meal a day. The gifts received yesterday were:

$50—Anonymous.
$10—Fanny M. Neumann.
$5—Shella; Burlington Route post, No. 387.
$5—Anna Green; E. Schroder.
$1—Bertha Loeffer; O. J. McDonald; Wilbert Blum; Illinois Inspection Bureau.
Total.....$ 61.00
Previously acknowledged.....$3,564.85

Grand total.....$3,625.85

As little as ten cents is welcome when directed to the Tribune Tower for the Hungry School Children's fund. It will purchase a nourishing hot lunch for a student and help to keep body and mind functioning in a period when many children are falling behind in their grades because of undernourishment.

COUNTY RELIEF SHELTER BUDGET REDUCED $112,000

The budget of the shelters for the idle in Cook county has been reduced by $112,000 since February, it was announced yesterday by Charles E. Miner, director of shelters for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The budget for February was $278,000; for March, $223,000, and for April, $166,000, he said.

This reduction in operating costs is due partially to a seasonal decline in the shelter population, he said. The major savings, however, were achieved through economies in administration and a revision of the shelter's work relief program. This latter revision consists of transferring a large number of men from the class that receives one day of work a week at a salary of $4 to other classes which receive less direct income.

MR. "WILD WILL" LYONS STICKS TO SHAMUS FARLEY

Has Name Now on Door in Postal Headquarters.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—These are days of power and glory for Wild Will Lyons, the day coach cowboy, who rode the western plains for many a year, selling pinch back suits to the best feed E. Berry Walls of Colorado, the cattle wagon farmers, miners, and lunch wagon cooks who wished to dress like Richard Dix and before that like Maurice Costello and Francis X. Bushman. Never again will Wild Will roam the hills aboard the combination train at 3:32 a. m. for a run down the Denver and Rio Grande to sell the New York store an order of goods to gladden the heart of the Sunday dude.

Far down a wide gallery on the fifth floor of the old postoffice building on Pennsylvania avenue, right next to the office of Shamus Farley, the postmaster general of the U. S. A., there is an office with Will's name lettered on the window.

It reads: "Mr. Lyons."

"Mr. Lyons," it says modestly, omitting all the many honors which he has acquired in his time. It says nothing on the window about his having been official timekeeper at the Dempsey-Willard fight in Toledo. Not a word does it say about his having been for years one of Dempsey's very best, personal friends, it not the undisputed No. 1 friend of the champion. It tells nothing about the watch which Dempsey gave him, engraved, "To my pal, Senator Bill Lyons, from Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world."

Nor anything about his having been at some remote time a member of the senate of the state of Colorado. Any statement, however brief, of Wild Will's titles, honors and distinctions, of which I have noted only the few most glamorous, would clutter up the whole window and cloud the light and, moreover, the paint job would run into appreciable money, contrary to the spirit of an economical administration. I do not believe he desires to be called senator, either, now that he is in Washington, because the uninformed might mistake him for one of those common senators. It might also serve to remind him that when he was a senator in Colorado he voted dry time and again.

One of Those Half Doors. Wild Will's office has an old fashioned saloon door giving onto the gallery. It is one of those half doors, revealing the inmates as far north as the knees, and it swings both ways. I heard the voice, the very unmistakable voice which had assured the keepers of a thousand New York stores along the Santa Fe, the D. and R. G., the Union Pacific, and their tributaries that those pinch back suits were made of absolutely good wool and the finest workmanship, embodying the highest value consistent with economy and the principles of sound merchandising. Including extra padding.

It is our aim and determination, the voice was saying, "to give the people of these great United States a sound, constructive, economical administration."

Down the gallery a fat figure shuffled along on limping feet with a creaked cat, hauled down over the left ear, peering with one orb at the faces of those who passed by searching for a friend. Old One-Eyed Connelly, the wandering gale cracker, just in from Florida by overland bus, had joined the ranks of the 10,000 deserving Democrats in Washington, to offer his experience and services to the government in the war on poverty.

He had sent a letter to the White

AGREE ON MEASURE TO CUT CITY POSTAL RATE, 3 TO 2 CENTS

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—An agreement was reached at a conference between the President, Postmaster General Farley, and congressional leaders today that a bill will be offered reducing the local postal letter rate from 3 to 2 cents, at the same time giving the President authority to restore the rate to 3 cents if he later deems it advisable.

It is expected that a reduction of the local letter rate will increase postal revenues, thus helping to reduce the postal deficit. It is also expected that this result the President will restore the higher rate.

House, offering to serve as dog tender and setting forth that his own extensive career as a gate crasher qualified him above all others to detect and thwart the stratagems of the uninvited on state occasions. The President did not answer. The President said, "I have been trying to see Jim." Mr. Connelly said, "but I cannot break through. The guy says 'Come back' and 'Come back,' but in the meantime how do I eat? And I've known Jim for years and years. The guy don't leave me, but he don't let me through. I'm 57 years old today. This is my birthday. I'm too old to be bumming around any more. I'll fall off a train and get killed at my age. If they want to fight poverty I'm just the guy. I have been poor all my life. But the guy in there just says to come back."

The door swung to the pressure of a finger tip, as the saloon door always used to, and there he sat in his power and glory at a desk, William C. Lyons, administrative assistant to the postmaster general, who is Shamus Farley, who is the man who gives out the jobs.

He Pleads Roosevelt.

For more than a year before the election Wild Will forsook the road and the line of pinch back suits to attach himself to Mr. Farley and the candidacy of that sterling statesman, Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose merits were less obvious to the less perceptive in those days. It was something like picking a horse in a futurity. Wild Will picked Roosevelt and Mr. Farley. He seldom let Mr. Farley out of his sight. And on coronation day Wild Will was among those who rode down the avenue in the big parade, the spirit of Andrew Jackson come to town to get him. I believe he was the first personal appointee of Shamus Farley, a man who goes down the line for his friends if they but go down the line for him.

Now, in a $5,000 job as administrative assistant, Wild Will is a member of the United States government. His duties, of course, are obvious. He assists the administration.

Wild Will says, yes, he knew old One-eye was skulking around, but now, if you were the general—they are calling Mr. Farley the general now, which is short for postmaster general—if you were the general what would you do? Where would you drop him in and, anyway, what did One-eye do to enable the impending redemption of these United States from the throes of depression's clutching quagmire and the devouring talons of economic and ethnologic inertia? Will always was a bit on the oratorical side.

"Worked and Delivered." "They didn't do me any favor, Jim and Mr. Roosevelt," Will said. "I earned mine. I worked and I delivered. But a fellow like that! I tell you if you go

They're "Making Progress."

"Why, do you know, sometimes the general—Jim, I mean—has to cop a sneak down the service elevator when he wants to get out of his hotel to go to dinner or somewhere on account of the people around wanting jobs? I'm not saying some of them don't deserve jobs, and, as I say, we're going to be fair, although, as you know, Jim hasn't got the giving of all the jobs. We have to consult the leaders, too. Up to now we have taken care of a number of the big jobs, including the cabinet, of course, and some of the ambassadors, and we are making progress. I want to give you one of my cards. How do you like that, hey? I just thought I would put my picture on it because so many people know me from being in public life. Well, come in any time. I am sorry you missed Jim. He is just out to lunch."

Mr. Connelly was still patrolling outside. "Did you see Jim? No? Listen, if you see him will you tell him you saw me? I am 57 years old today. I can't bum around any more. I'll fall off a train and get killed."

MITCHELL PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO NEW INDICTMENT

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—Charles E. Mitchell, resigned chairman of the National City bank, made his second appearance in federal court for arraignment on a new indictment returned yesterday by the federal grand jury charging him with evading the payment of $154,731 taxes on his 1930 income which he is alleged to have wiped out in a single stock transaction which the government claims was fraudulent.

Judge Frank J. Coleman ruled that the original bill of $10,000 posted by Mr. Mitchell when he was arraigned on the first indictment covering 1929 could also apply to this indictment. He fixed April 24 as the date for trial over the strenuous protests of Max D. Steuer, Mr. Mitchell's attorney.

Mr. Mitchell pleaded not guilty to the indictment when it was read to him by the clerk.

The first indictment has been set aside for trial on April 27, but United States Attorney George Z. Medill, who arraigned Mr. Mitchell, indicated that the government would ask that it be put over until April 24. On this date, he said, he would move for the consolidation of both indictments for the purpose of trial.

WOMEN JURORS ARE BLIND TO MALE CHARMS

Cleveland, O., April 14.—[Special.]—Six women were selected today to serve on the jury trying John Campbell, 19, of Chicago, on a robbery charge, but not until they had given satisfactory answers to the question: "Will you set him free because he is good looking?"

The question was asked by Assistant Prosecutor Frank D. Celebrezze, who twice in the last few days has received reports that women jurors aided in the acquittal of men defendants because they "were too good looking to convict."

BLIMP SENT OUT TO AID AKRON IN FACE OF DANGER

Commandant Tells Why He Took a Chance.

Lakehurst, N. J., April 14. — [Special.]—In sending the United States Navy blimp J-3 in search of survivors of the navy dirigible Akron last week, the authorities at the air station here were fully aware that the ship might be lost in the attempt, Lieutenant Commander Jesse Kenworthy testified before the board of naval inquiry. It was sent out when a report, which later proved false, was received that many men were clinging to the wreckage of the big dirigible.

Seventy-three officers and men were lost in the Akron disaster and two of the crash of the J-3. Both ships were destroyed.

The inquiry into the causes of the Akron's crash was today adjourned to Washington next week and Lieutenant Commander Ralph G. Penney, judge advocate, began the investigation of the J-3 disaster.

Succeeds to Command.

Lieutenant Commander Kenworthy, the first witness at this inquiry, became acting commandant of the naval air base here after the commandant, Commander F. T. Berry, was lost when the Akron crashed.

Commander Kenworthy told of being awakened at 2 a. m. on the morning of the disaster and of subsequently receiving many messages and inquiries in regard to the Akron.

A message arrived telling of the crash and stating: "Many men and wreckage in the water."

He tried to get further information, but none was available until 7:09 a. m. when he received word that Lieutenant Commander Herbert V. Wiley and three other men were aboard the German ship Phoenix.

That was all.

"That dispatch gave us nothing on which to base a search," he said. "We were still getting reports of men being towed ashore on rafts of wreckage."

Order J-3 to Rescue.

"Since daylight I had considered putting out the J-3," he said. "I knew she could carry out the mission for which I desired her."

An additional report came in, indicating that several members of the Akron's crew were still in the water and might be saved. He prepared the J-3 for flight, the witness continued.

Finally he ordered Lieutenant Commander David E. Cummins to take her out, cautioning him that "we simply cannot lose any more men."

So the J-3 took off. Two hours later he learned that it had crashed in the water off Beach Haven, N. J.

"Knowing myself to be the superior officer present I felt I was justified in taking extreme steps in any attempt to save the lives of those aboard the Akron," Commander Kenworthy said.

Officer Tells of Crash.

Lieut. John M. Thornton, flight officer on the J-3, described how the ship proceeded to a point about fifteen miles east of Atlantic City and how it eventually crashed.

Lieut. Thornton said they decided on a forced landing because one of the motors came loose in its carriage. In the attempt, with a volunteer landing crew, a gust of wind tore the blimp away and wrecked it.

GOVERNMENT GETS FIRST RATIFICATION OF DRY LAW REPEAL

Washington, D. C., April 14. — [Special.]—An historic document reached Washington today when the department of state received from the secretary of state of Michigan the first state ratification of the 21st amendment, for repeal of the 18th amendment, and the first ratification in American history of a constitutional amendment by a state convention.

In announcing receipt of a certified copy of the resolution adopted by the Michigan convention, Undersecretary of State William Phillips declared with a smile that he hoped there would be more resolutions of the same sort and soon.

Michigan's ratification of the proposed 21st amendment to the constitution was adopted at Lansing last Monday by a vote of 99 to 1.

HOUSE VOTES FOR TEXAS ELECTION LEGALIZING BEER

Austin, Tex., April 14. — [Special.]—Only approval of the Texas senate remained tonight to be given before the question of legalizing 3.2 per cent beer in Texas would be submitted to a direct vote of the people.

The house voted, 134 to 6, today to submit to the electorate next Aug. 28 an amendment to the state constitution which would legalize the sale of 3.2 per cent beer. It also passed a bill to regulate the sale, license breweries and retailers of beer, and levy a tax, but the law would not become operative if the electorate defeated the constitutional amendment.

Legislative observers said they believed the senate would give quick consideration to both proposals.

The senate yesterday passed a house bill providing for a special state-wide election to choose delegates to a state convention to consider the proposed repeal of the 18th amendment.

FRANCE TO SHIP FROZEN 3.2 WINE FOR THIRSTY U. S.

PARIS, April 14. — [Special.]—Wines with only 3.2 per cent alcohol are hardly French wines and, moreover, they go all to pieces in shipping. But the wily French have found a means of getting the juice of their precious vines into the American market.

They are going to diminish the alcohol in their wines, which is normally at least 10 per cent, and then, to assure their shipping well, they are going to freeze them in special tanks on refrigerator ships which, it is understood, are being outfitted at Bordeaux and St. Nazaire.

Once in America the vintages would be thawed out and released to what the French have reason to think is a particularly thirsty people.

Rules Papers in Arkansas Can Advertise 3.2 Beer

Little Rock, Ark., April 14. — [Special.]—Newspapers in dry Arkansas may advertise the fact that 3.2 beer is on sale in nearby states, Attorney General Hal L. Norwood ruled today. "It is my opinion," he said, "that it is not a violation of law for an Arkansas newspaper to carry advertisements for 3.2 beer, where the beer is not to be sold in Arkansas or shipped into the state."

ROOSEVELT ASKS ARMS EMBARGO, DEMOCRATS TOLD

Leaders Meet Opposition on House Floor.

Chicago Tribune Press Service.—Washington, D. C., April 14. — [Special.]—President Roosevelt today asked Congress to place an arms embargo on nations engaged in or threatening war, and to join with other nations in enforcing such an embargo.

The resolution reported by the McReynolds committee would empower the President to prohibit shipment of munitions of war to nations engaged in or threatening war, and to join with other nations in enforcing such an embargo.

Mr. McReynolds told the house, and particularly his Democratic colleagues, that President Roosevelt was in complete accord with the views of Mr. Beck.

The resolution reported by the McReynolds committee would empower the President to prohibit shipment of munitions of war to nations engaged in or threatening war, and to join with other nations in enforcing such an embargo.

"I believe there has been an enormous change in the mental attitude of the American people," he said. "I believe there is a deep distinction between Socialism and communism, which, I believe, are confused here."

"Our parties are many, ranging from extreme right to extreme left, but all agree that we should not come back and that peace should be enforced by definite measures."

SEND IOWA BEER BILL TO GOVERNOR FOR SIGNATURE

Des Moines, Ia., April 14. — [Special.]—Final legislative action on the beer bill was taken by the house of representatives this afternoon when it concurred in senate amendments to the measure by a vote of 32 to 16. The bill now goes to Gov. Clyde Herring for his signature.

Of the 32 yeas, 44 were Democrats and 18 Republicans.

The 16 nay votes were recorded by 11 Republicans and 5 Democrats.

The 10 absent or not voting included 7 Democrats and 3 Republicans.

The entire discussion over the bill occupied slightly less than 25 minutes.

Pleads for Democracy.

"I believe our people are far from convinced that a departure from democracy is a step forward, and that they are definitely convinced that Beck Calls It Dangerous.

"This resolution," said Mr. Beck, "gives the President the right to pass on moral questions, to discriminate between two warring nations. Such a discriminatory embargo would be an act of intervention beyond any question and would lead to war immediately or later, in retaliation. It would scrap the historic policy of this nation."

Representative James W. Wadsworth (Rep., N. Y.) echoed Mr. Beck's warning.

"An embargo," he said, "must in the last analysis be maintained by force. This resolution authorizes the President, in cooperation with other nations, to employ force to discipline some particular nation. Go very slow before you endanger the people of America."

Representative George Tinkham (Rep., Mass.) termed it a "proposal that not even Hitler would dare offer."

WENT DOWN OF COUPLE.

Camden, N. J., April 14. — [Special.]—Tracing clues in the case of the man who kidnapped and robbed a Camden couple Wednesday night, officers learned today the bandit had been driven here from Bushnell by E. W. Spacker, chief of the fire department in that city, the police using a gun to enforce his demand.

FRENCH LEAGUE DIRECTOR HAILS U. S. LEADERSHIP

Says Nation Will Back Roosevelt Aims.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The French people today see American leadership in international affairs being resumed, according to Pierre De Lanux, director of the Paris office of the league of nations, who spoke yesterday before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at the Palmer house.

He spoke, he said, not as a league man, but as a Frenchman, and welcomed this change in American sentiment.

"This American leadership," he said, "is seen not as telling us what to do, but acting as a sort of chairman, a mediator. We see it coming back in such a direction. It will be welcomed on the part of our people."

Depression Changes Views.

"I think the doctrine of twelve years ago has been revised by the American people, in the light of the depression, which is our depression too. If America is going to play an active part in constructive proposals, in terms which we can accept, you may see criticism in some of our papers. I ask you to remember that some of these do not represent mass opinion."

"I believe there has been an enormous change in the mental attitude of the American people. I believe there is a deep distinction between Socialism and communism, which, I believe, are confused here."

"Our parties are many, ranging from extreme right to extreme left, but all agree that we should not come back and that peace should be enforced by definite measures."

BEER AND ITS TAX SCHEDULE ADOPTED BY FLORIDA HOUSE

Tallahassee, Fla., April 14. — [Special.]—Beer was approved by the Florida house of representatives today by a vote of 72 to 20.

The bill immediately was followed by a companion measure, which was also passed, setting up a tax schedule. Its proponents said it would provide a 10 cent glass of beer and $2,000,000 a year in revenue for schools.

The house turned down, by a sweeping majority vote, amendments which would have provided for a referendum and for county option.

The senate and governor have yet to act on the beer measure, which also legalizes wine of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content. Gov. Dave Sholtz had asked for beer in a message to the assembly.

SEEKS UNIFORM BEER LAWS FOR N. SHORE TOWNS

Officials of north shore towns, from Evanston to Highland Park, were invited yesterday by Village President William B. Moulton of Winnetka to attend a meeting Monday evening and adopt a general policy on beer sales. The meeting is to be held in the Winnetka village hall.

In several of the suburbs ancient laws prevent the sales of beer. Highland Park and Glenview authorities have ordered the enforcement of these laws for the present. Beer vending in Evanston is also of doubtful legality.

Mr. Moulton is hopeful that some form of ordinance satisfactory to all the suburbs can be suggested.

United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green, in Chicago, received instructions from the attorney general in Washington not to oppose the re-opening of places padlocked under the dry laws, where the offense was the sale of beer with low alcoholic content. It is estimated that perhaps 100 of the 1,200 places locked up in the city will be eligible to reopen as legal beer sellers under this ruling.

Legal wines, with a 4 per cent alcoholic content by volume, are now on sale in Chicago. Downtown department stores are handling the beverage. The producers claim that it is of high quality and palatable and that experienced wine drinkers will be pleased with it.

FRANCE ACCEPTS ROOSEVELT'S BID TO TRADE PARLEY

10 Nations Plan to Send Representatives.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—(Special.)—With the receipt today from France of a formal message accepting President Roosevelt's invitation to a conference on economic questions, all of the eleven major powers invited by the President, with the exception of Argentina, have accepted or indicated their intention of accepting. Argentina is expected to send an acceptance in a day or two.

French Note of Acceptance.

The French acceptance, delivered to the secretary of state today from the French embassy, reads as follows: "The French government accepts the invitation of President Roosevelt with the greatest pleasure and it is particularly happy to meet the desire of the President by intrusting to M. Herriot the mission of conferring with him."

"The French government feels very gratified at the excellent initiative taken by President Roosevelt. It considers these preliminary conversations between representatives of the principal interested governments a practical method to insure an efficient preparation of the world conference and a step towards its success."

Herriot Arrives April 23.

M. Herriot will sail April 17 on the Ile de France, arriving in New York on April 23, and he will return on the same ship, sailing April 29.

The acceptance of Japan was conveyed to the state department verbally today by the Japanese ambassador, who announced that Viscount Ishii, selected as the Japanese spokesman, will arrive in the United States about May 25 on his way to the world economic conference at London. He will be accompanied by Eliso Fukui, deputy governor of the Bank of Japan and one of the foremost economic experts in the country.

Nations Which Accepted.

The list of the other nations invited to special conferences with President Roosevelt, and the status of their acceptance, follows:

ENGLAND—Raymond Macdonald, prime minister, arrived April 21 for 5 days. An extensive social program has been arranged for Mr. Macdonald and his party.

ITALY—An official of the ministry of finance will arrive about May 1.

CHINA—His acceptance will be represented by T. V. Soong, minister of finance, who is due to arrive at Seattle about May 2.

CANADA—Richard Bennett, prime minister, will be in Washington April 25 to 28 inclusive.

MEXICO—Will probably send Engineer Panni, former minister for foreign affairs, now at Miami, Fla.

GERMANY—Accepted, but representative not yet designated.

BRAZIL—Accepted, but representative not designated.

CHILE—Acceptance indicated informally.

AGRICULTURAL STATES UNITE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, April 14.—The agrarian states of eastern and central Europe will present a united front in talking with President Roosevelt. This was announced here today in connection with Poland's acceptance of Mr. Roosevelt's invitation to discuss various subjects, preparatory to the meeting of the world economic conference.

The government's communication said that the Polish ambassador at Washington will participate in the conversations with the President.

Bound in a Bloc.

"The United States government has invited Poland to exchange views on the world economic conference," said the communication. "The Polish government communicated its full agreement with the American suggestions, expressing the conviction that efficacious preparation is an essential condition to the success of the economic conference."

Holding this viewpoint, Poland actually coordinates its opinions on the report of the preparatory conference commission with those of other central and eastern European states with whom it is bound by several years of collaboration in a bloc of agrarian states.

Therefore, in her exchange of views with the United States, Poland will consider the common interest of that bloc."

Macdonald Sails Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 14.—Prime Minister Macdonald will depart for the United States tomorrow on his good-will mission. Having completed all his preparations, the prime minister spent the day quietly at Chequers. He returned to Downing street tonight.

Macdonald, his daughter Isabel, and a staff of experts will leave London at 8 a. m. for Southampton where they will board the Berengaria, which is to sail before noon.

Soong Decides to Attend.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 14.—T. V. Soong, minister of finance in the national government, today announced that he will go to Washington for the international conferences with President Roosevelt and later to London for the world economic conference. Soong will sail Tuesday.

Argentina Accepts Bid.

BUENOS AIRES, April 14.—(Special.)—Chancellor Saavedra Lamas instructed Ambassador Espil to inform the government in Washington that Argentina accepts the invitation for economic conferences with American statesmen. A delegate will be appointed soon.

Women Ask Early Parley.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, April 14.—The Women's International League of Peace today passed a resolution urging President Roosevelt to convene the world economic conference at the earliest date possible with all delegations prepared to make sacrifices in the interest of all.

The league recommends a reduction in tariffs and asks that qualified women to be included in the delegations to protect the interest of the consumers. Miss Emily Balch of Boston represents the American group in the league.

PUSH RAW MILK
PRICES UP 15 CTS.
TO AID FARMER

Big Concerns Approve Schmedeman Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., April 14.—(Special.)—The first step in Gov. A. G. Schmedeman's program to increase prices paid to Wisconsin milk producers was achieved tonight when representatives of nine evaporated milk companies agreed to comply with his request that they pay an additional 15 cents per hundredweight for raw milk beginning tomorrow.

It is the beginning of an ambitious program which involves state action in eight other sovereign units. Messages were sent to the governors of Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, North and South Dakota, asking them to cooperate in raising the price an identical sum.

Other telegrams were sent to officials of about 20 condenseries in mid-western states urging them to fall in line with the program as a means of reducing the farm problem and giving farmers something closer to the cost of producing raw milk.

The nine condenseries represented at tonight's meeting with the governor and Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the executive council, are said to control considerably more than half of the evaporated milk market in Wisconsin. Other condenseries not represented were called by telephone and their officers generally agreed to the 15 cent increase, which raises the price per hundred to $1, it was stated.

Fails to Satisfy Governor.

Another executive plan which will be imposed if conditions are found to warrant it is for the state to take over the Plymouth cheese market, which controls more than 65 per cent of the cheese distributed throughout the United States, it was revealed. This plan has been outlined to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

The cheese market was asked by Gov. Schmedeman two weeks ago to increase the price of the product and give Wisconsin farmers indirect benefits. There were a few responses as the market fluctuated upward fractions of a cent. This slight increase does not satisfy the governor. It is reported, and unless an additional increase is shown within the next two weeks the market will be taken over by the state government and operated until prices are satisfactory.

Bound in a Bloc.

"The United States government has invited Poland to exchange views on the world economic conference," said the communication. "The Polish government communicated its full agreement with the American suggestions, expressing the conviction that efficacious preparation is an essential condition to the success of the economic conference."

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE NEW MAYOR.

Edward J. Kelly, elected mayor of Chicago by the city council, takes an office which a citizen considering only his own peace of mind would have been reluctant to enter. The duties and responsibilities contain an honor, particularly in the year of the World's Fair, which a man might be ambitious to attain, but no one could minimize the perplexities which also are a part of it at this time.

Mayor Kelly takes over a situation characterized by extraordinary financial uncertainties. Public employees are unpaid, tax assessments are in a muddle, tax collectors are numerous, economies are fought, collections are slow, and want is widespread. There is, however, the probability that Chicago with the right kind of administration and management, with the opportunities which the Fair can develop, may lead the country in the recovery of prosperity. Mr. Kelly's administrative ability is respected. His opportunities may be as large as his difficulties. It will be a feather in the cap of the man who can have conspicuous and important place in the redemption of a great American city from its follies and misfortunes, and who can have his name connected with such a triumph in democratic government.

The council, as might have been expected, stayed within the field of politics in making its selection. There are idealists who would have been better satisfied if the aldermen had recruited some one outside of the political organization. Experience with such experiments has not had a high average of satisfactory performance. Government, year in and year out, is a matter of politics. The occasional adventurer into this field, frequently without training in the human complexities which he must handle, is often a failure in spite of good intentions. Probably the soundest philosophy in the long run will accord the highest rewards of politics to politicians in the hope that their talents will be used for the general welfare. That is the hope in the case of the new mayor, and it may be justified. It is a tough job, but a good man can handle it.

FEWER ELECTIONS.

President Whelan of the county board will have the emphatic support of the public in his protest against the failure of the assembly to pass promptly the measure to consolidate elections. There have been four elections in the country towns on three different days this spring and it is estimated that one million dollars of the hard driven taxpayers' money might have been saved this year by timely legislative action.

Representative Adamowski, sponsor of the election consolidation bill, expresses the hope that the measure will be enacted at this session. The saving for this year has failed but enactment will insure for the future. This may be a loss to judges and clerks and to politicians, but it is demanded by the public and we think legislators who ignore that demand will hear from it in due time. Economy in election expenses is greatly needed and there is no respectable argument against it. Opposition or indifference to this relief is inexcusable. The bill should be put upon its way without further delay and insured its enactment before the session closes.

MEDIEVAL CHARTERS.

Dr. George Craig Stewart, a trustee of Northwestern university, has asked the board to procure an interpretation of the university charter making summary law within a four mile limit of its corporation. The jurisdiction of this charter extends outside Evanston itself and takes in part of the city of Chicago. Another instance of such law is found in the old charter of Highland Park, which dates back to 1869. The mayor and the board of commissioners have based their prohibition of the sale of the new beer upon this charter. It extends its prohibitions a mile outside the corporate limits. In these charters there is a concept of law which is more consistent with medieval ideas of the king's peace and of ecclesiastical jurisdiction than there is of the principle of local self-government, in which American political organization found its origins. It seems wholly inconsistent with democratic principle that a part of the city of Chicago should find itself limited by the terms of a charter given a denominational institution of learning. Such a restriction denies the people in no way connected with the chartered institution the right to determine for themselves a matter of habit which has been associated with local autonomy.

The same is true of the archaic Highland Park charter, which sets up a rule for people who have nothing to say in the management of the town. It is perceptible how these old grants of power got their sanction. There was plenty of land and pioneering communities and institutions were given the right to create conditions satisfactory to them without much thought of future conditions in which the rights so granted would be unjustifiable limitations upon the liberty and autonomy of other people outside the jurisdiction of the chartered privileges. There may have been the thought that the newcomers must understand what the contract was and enter the covered area at their own peril. Nevertheless these charters are more feudal than democratic, and they contain stipulations inherently offensive to the fundamental principles of American life. They are odd survivals of special privilege to which older times gave a sanction now not prevalent in general opinion.

COALITION FOR JUDGES.

The Bar association's recommendation that both parties nominate a full party ticket for the June election, in THE TRIBUNE'S opinion, ought not to be followed. The situation calls for a coalition to insure the reelection of all the sitting judges who have demonstrated their fitness and the elimination of unfit candidates. The reliance of the Bar association upon the discrimination of voters is not likely to be justified in present circumstances, whereas a coalition upon the best men would assure their election. The objections to coalition have less weight than objections to a party ticket which ought not to be imposed upon the community at this time. The notion that coalition implies deals by party leaders, while nomination of full tickets by the party conventions will avoid them, seems to us fantastic. Party deals and trades are not absent from contests where full tickets are nominated and responsibility for the nominations of unfit men is more easily escaped in such a plan than under a coalition agreement.

The recommendation is ill judged and the party leadership must accept its responsibility for presenting a ticket which assumes the reelection of faithful and competent men. In a straight party contest the force of party allegiance will sacrifice some good judges and put or keep unfit men on the bench. There is no excuse for this. Responsibility for a coalition to prevent it is upon the shoulders of the Democratic and Republican leaders. Intelligent citizenship demands that it be accepted and the protection of the judiciary be made certain by the only method that can make it certain, coalition for the reelection of judges who have demonstrated their fitness and for the elimination of judges who have not. A party contest cannot insure this. It will defeat it.

SONS OF FREEDOM IN BEDS OF ROSES.

The collected thoughts of Messrs. Eckel, Tugwell, and Moley, if ideas so volatile can be regarded as collected, have the members of congress in a daze. Prof. Eckel expounds much of his philosophy in logarithms and equations which mystify even the radical senators who know that the professor must be right, but do not know what he is saying. From it all can be gathered the apparent idea that the wealth of the United States must be redistributed and that from him who hath must be taken in order that he who hath not shall have. Owing partly to the complexities of the professorial idiom and partly to the difficulties of the subject itself, it is not made plain who is to be robbed and how and why.

Probably some idea of conservation will be found in the implementing of the professor's social theories, but still it is hard to find the person who would qualify for such severity of treatment. The moment a citizen found that he did not want to work and produce he would become the very man upon whom the federal benevolence should be poured. Possibly even the little rich, if they insisted on being idle, would be found to merit consideration. Social philosophy is not expected to answer to realities, but just the same it might be important to discover the person whose sins will qualify him for labor. In compensation for many mysteries in which the new economic yogi are ballooning about, it is some gratification to perceive at least one thing. That is the popular creed which will result from the philosophy when it is the law of the country. It will run as follows:

"I will be an idler and with the idlers stand when everything is Jacob in Mother Goose's land. I don't know who is going to work, but I know it won't be me, not when screws are on the rich in the land of liberty. I'll take the sun and eat my fill 'neath the spreading Christmas tree. Hallelujah, I'm a bum."

Editorial of the Day

LANSING STREET CARS STOP.

[Michigan State Journal.]
Lansing doubtless swelled with pride the day ground was broken for the first street car line. That was April 13, 1888.

It was April 9, 1933, when street cars ceased to operate in Lansing. There is a span of 47 years. During that time transportation within the city has been very necessary to Lansing. The city could not have functioned in a good part of the 47 years had it not been for the street cars.

The street cars have ceased to operate, but the tracks and equipment are in quite a degree still valuable. What is to become of that value? Economic waste is waste no matter who has title to the wasted property.

The present situation has come about through a chain of circumstances which, if better considered, better controlled, would not have brought the present result.

The city council has seen the tendency for months. But it lacked the initiative and the courage—particularly the latter—to handle the situation.

But besides the council there are other circumstances that have brought the present result. Of course, there has been the long tendency away from the use of street cars. But, as frequently pointed out by the State Journal, there has remained sufficient traffic to keep the lines in limited operation.

Then, not so long ago, came the strike of the street car operatives. They instigated "stoney" competition to bring the company to time. In that they killed the goose that laid the thin dimes. The street car operatives won their strike, but they left a city pestered with the so-called "courtesy cars." The street car operatives found themselves fought by "courtesy cars" which went on from where they left off. The result was that, while the street car system impeded would-be passengers to gather at street corners, along would come the "courtesy cars" and slither the cream. So the street car operatives, who won their strike, won an empty victory.

Some effort to keep the "courtesy car" competition off the streets was made. Arrests were inflicted, but the courtesy car operatives, when taken into court, pleaded sympathy. They cited nine children, a handicapped wife and a mother-in-law, and so the justice would not convict. The result was, of course, that the transportation money Lansing had to pay was divided so that it became no longer possible for the street cars to operate.

Now that the street cars have ceased to operate would-be passengers will no longer gather adjacent to the car lines, and so even the "courtesy cars" will find the cream they skimmed missing. Human relationships do not serve very well unless they are regulated. Lack of regulation will kill any game.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"THE UNITED STATES ARMY," said Maj. Hagood to the congressional committee, "has become so complicated that an archangel could not operate it." But, anyhow, an archangel would be something of an improvement as a commanding officer because he wouldn't put on all his fuss and feathers and promenade up and down the boulevards just for the fun of making the common soldiers salute him.

"AND," continued the astonishing Maj. Hagood, "it's the bunk to say it takes three years to make an infantry soldier. You don't have to drill a recruit for even three months. You can put him in the trenches in ten days. A Follies girl can outdrill a West Point cadet, for that matter." Dear, dear! This is simply terrible! And coming from an army officer, too. If a stage manager can teach chorus girls to drill better than West Point cadets what's the use of all the Hard Boiled Smiths and all the other hard boiled regular army boys that posed us around during the late guerre? And it would be so nice to have Follies chorus girls for colonels and captains and lieutenants and things if they are better drilled. For gosh knows they are a lot easier to look at and they would really make war quite attractive.

FOR IF A CUNNING LITTLE Follies beauty was drilling a bunch of recruits into dying nicely and prettily for their country she wouldn't bark fiercely at any of them and say: "Hey, you, where d'you think you are? You're in the army now." Ah, no, the Follies cutie would say: "And now, dearies, stand up nice and straight; that's it, oh, that's lovely. And now let's all go over to a hash joint and have some hot dogs and ice cream. Beat it!" Oh, we're all for the Follies girls for drillmasters.

PANDORA.

I will have faith. There have been days when I doubted.

There have been nights that were heavy and clouded with pain.

Always the morning has dawned and the darkness been rowed;

Anguish has dulled into peace—sunshine vanquished the rain.

Why should I deem it eternal,—this moment of sorrow?

It, too, shall pass. God will give me another tomorrow!

MARJORIE F. W.

PRINCETON has given the bum's rush to one of its students, His Royal Highness the Prince of Siam, Phasob Mom Chow Sukhavasit. It was probably a mistake, Princeton thinking that every time the prince pronounced his name he was kidding their college yell. And a college yell is something quite sacred.

AN END OF MONOCHROMES.

April rejects the monochromes
That March, content to keep,
Effortless, leaves the broad terrain
With dead leaves in a heap.
A wood of brittle branches,
The iron trunks of trees,
Nor color there enhances,
While fulvous burn the leaves.

For March is void of color
And envious of fair days,
Dark and cold the rain falls
Through pallor of gray haze.
But April, budding April,
Abhors a monochrome,
To revel in lavish landscapes
Within her northern home.
As like a newly wedded
She settles down in life,
She has a choice of colors,
With rampant hues is rife.
A bush of yellow flowering,
A brown thrush through the tree,
The blood red bud of hedges,
A sky of cloud swept free,
Of halcyon days a plenty
A happy augury.
Such shifting scenes of color,
Kind dispensation given,
A little less of dolor,
A little hint of heaven.

CLARENCE MILLIGAN.

GOVERNOR OLSON of Minnesota hopes the present system of government goes right down into hell if it fails to prevent the recurrence of existing conditions. Which is all right with us if we can be assured there are no taxes there. But if there's a sulphur tax or a flames tax or a brimstone tax down there then that would be hell.

AND ALSO Gov. Olson threatens to employ martial law and confiscate all wealth. The governor will have to hurry if he wants to get any of our wealth. We figure that after we get through paying the income taxes, the state taxes, the county taxes, the city taxes, the gas taxes, the auto tax, the dog tax, and the sales tax we will have left a plugged Canadian dime, a transfer on the North Clark street street car line, good only March 14, 1933, and an old pair of suspenders. And if any governor wants to send the National Guard and two pieces of heavy artillery around to get them he can have 'em without a struggle.

HOW TRUE IT IS that things which are at the time accounted as calamities sometimes turn out to be of real value. We have a scar over the right eye where we were kicked in childhood's happy hour by a mean minded mule. We hated that scar, but now we rejoice in it. It's something that no tax board or confiscator of wealth can ever take away from us.

THAT and a tattooed Japanese dragon on our right arm, a taste for good likker, and a cigaret cough are ours, and none can take them from us. That's our real wealth. As Cornelia, the mother of the Gracchi, so proudly said: "These are my jewels."

HERNIA TREATED BY INJECTION.

W receive a fair number of requests, particularly in recent years, asking about the injection method for the radical cure of hernia. One reason for the success in this method is the success in treating hernias very high up. A certain degree of success with the injection treatment of hemorrhoids is also responsible for some of the new interest in the injection cure of hernia. Another reason is the general wish to avoid a cutting operation whenever the case can be done. Still another is some discontent with the results of radical operations for the obliteration of hernial sacs and the closure of hernial canals and so good an anatomist as Dr. Evans is said to have had 8 per cent of failures in this operation. If Dr. Evans failed to cure hernia in eight out of each one hundred operations the probability is that the general run of surgeons has a greater proportion of failures.

The principle underlying the injection treatment of hernia is quite different from that concerned in the cure of various other hernias. The hernial opening is large and the canal is long, and the mechanism of closing it is not simple. The principle of the injection method is to cause an inflammation just outside the hernial sac which causes swelling and, in this case, the swelling is injected into the tissues just outside the sac. There are many injections and, in the course of time, some of them are made into the sac itself. As a result of the repeated injections the hernia area is kept sore for a considerable time in the hope that inflammatory products and tissues would finally succeed in blocking the sac with firm tissue. There are several questions that physicians use for deciding whether the case is suitable for this method. Probably the case most frequently employed is that of a hernia popularized by a Spaniard, Dr. Pina Mestre. An unsatisfactory as the radical operation is, it is the better and the more successful method of cure in the great majority of cases. However, there are some cases which appear to be better suited to the injection method.

In many of the cases where operation offers the better chance of cure objection to surgery on one ground or another will cause the injection method to be chosen. In such cases it should be recognized that the method is not the best one, but that it is selected for some other reason.

IT MAY INJURE SOME.

Mrs. R. writes: I have been troubled by constipation for a number of years. I find it a little bit easier each morning I do not have any trouble at all, but I have been told by a number of persons that my brain is injurious to the intestine. Do you think it is all right to eat it?

REPLY.

There are a fairly large number of persons who do not benefit by eating brain. Many if not all of these have spastic colitis or irritable colon. The number who are benefited by eating brain is much larger.

ASTHMA.

K. H. writes: 1. Is asthma very serious? 2. Is it contagious? 3. Is psoriasis inherited?

REPLY.

1. There are several kinds of asthma. Some are very serious. Others are troublesome but do not endanger life. There is a marked tendency for asthma to become chronic and that adds greatly to its seriousness. 2. No. 3. No.

NEED A PHYSICIAN.

W. R. writes: You speak very glibly about taking insulin to get fat. To one who has been trying for years to gain weight this is interesting. How is insulin taken for the purpose? Does one need a prescription or can it be obtained at the drug store? I have a small goiter which the doctor says is not serious and will probably go away. Could this be keeping me thin?

REPLY.

You need a physician's service. Probably you have too much thyroid and that is the reason you are too thin and cannot get fat. A metabolic test would help materially to settle that. Let your physician decide whether yours is a case that would be suited to insulin, and how much you should take. The use of insulin increases the appetite. Your physician will advise you how much your new appetite should be indulged. He will also teach you how to administer insulin yourself. Insulin as a fattening agent has had considerable use. It is pretty well established.

MORTGAGE NOTES.
Chicago, April 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have some notes due on a second mortgage which are past due and the party owing has refused to pay. They tell me they are going to give up the building. The first mortgage expires Sept. 7, 1933. Will I be able to collect on these notes in any way?

C. Z.
Your chances of collecting by foreclosure depend upon the value of the security. Your chances of enforcing personal liability as to other assets of the maker of the notes depends upon the extent of those assets.

REFUSE REMOVED.
Chicago, April 10.—[Friend of the People.]—I wish to report a condition which has existed for over a year. A vacant lot next to us is used as a general dumping ground for the neighborhood. A number of frame cottages across the alley are without garbage cans and they carry their refuse to this lot.

H. Z.
There is no legal minimum, but as a practical matter it is not worth while for a landlord to incur court costs and attorney's fees on a small claim, particularly where there may be doubt as to whether judgment can be secured, or as to whether, if secured, it can be collected.

TRINITY LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The house of representatives today passed the $7,000,000,000 revenue authorization bill. It now goes to the senate, where it is expected to be passed by the 15th at the latest. There was not a vote cast in opposition to the bill in the house. Minority Leader Mann demanded a vote and gave the order to give those who voted against a declaration of war a chance to go on record, now that war exists, in favor of prosecuting it to a victory. Three hundred and eighty-two affirmative votes were cast. Meyer London, New York Socialist, voted "present." Majority Leader Kitchin and Mr. Mann then announced that all of the absentees of all parties were in favor of the bill. Under the terms of the bill $5,000,000,000 in bonds will be issued and, if found necessary, the government is authorized to issue certificates of indebtedness to the sum of $2,000,000,000. Three billion dollars of the bonds will be used to take up the amount of all the national debt with which the United States now is joined in prosecuting the war against the Germanic allies.

LONDON.—Sledgellike blows delivered by Field Marshal Haig at the two ends of the huge front over which the British are operating are being sent to seal the fall of both Lens and St. Quentin. Swift forward thrusts carried Lieven, southwest of Lens, and Clive St. Pierre to the northwest, practically hammering the great French coil back against the stupor-plastered Hindenburg line, while British troops fought their way at the bayonet's point to within a few hundred yards of St. Quentin. North of the Somme river to Loos the reduction of the Hindenburg line continued and Gen. Haig's forces reached points from two to three miles east of the Vimy ridge, from which the British artillery is now raining steel upon the retreating Germans.

OTHER WAR NEWS.—Home reports artillery activity in the Lagarrina and Adige valleys. Scattering reconnaissance and reciprocal firing on the Caucasian front are reported by Petrograd. Minor engagements are reported from the other battle fronts.

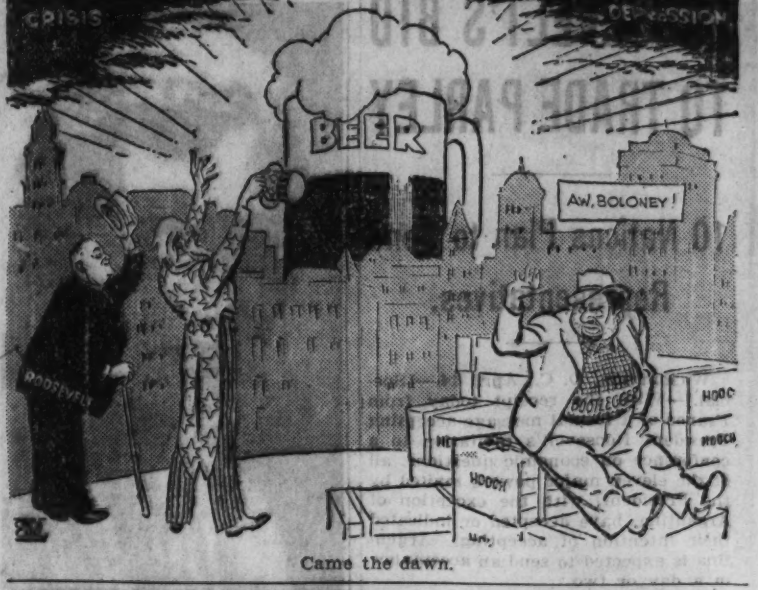

NEW YORK.—It became known today that Marshall Field of Chicago, the grandson of the founder of Marshall Field & Co. and himself a possessor of one of the greatest fortunes in America, is going to do his "bit" for the U. S. A. Young Mr. Field has announced his intention of enlisting immediately as a private in the First Illinois cavalry.

CHICAGO.—Representatives of over twenty Irish societies of Cook county met to express their appreciation to Representative Meffert McCormick for presenting to the house a resolution expressing the hope that peace shall witness the restoration of Belgium.

and Serbia and the establishment of a united and self-governing Ireland and Poland. A committee was appointed to incur court costs and attorney's fees on a small claim, particularly where there may be doubt as to whether judgment can be secured, or as to whether, if secured, it can be collected.

THE LESSON OF THE AKRON.

Chicago, April 12.—A brief reply to Capt. Hedley ament the Akron, and I promise to leave these columns to others. The good captain has mistaken the target of my first remarks. My objections were not raised against the further experimentation with dirigibles, but against the building of any more "biggest" dirigibles. I say that the men who died in the Akron were sacrificed to our pride in that word "biggest," and that the money spent on the Akron could have been more profitably spent on smaller airships of the rigid type. The smaller ships can be made more compact and therefore safer. They can be made more maneuverable in the weather conditions that every dirigible must meet sooner or later.

I repeat that the Akron had no pioneer value, because in failing it laid every structural change in it open to supercilious criticism. The whole case against these super-size dirigibles is not merely failure, however, but repeated failure without benefit of progress. The mere changes in the Akron's condition have been caused by Capt. Hedley as "progress" and "pioneering." Yet what lesson can we gain from the Akron's performance? None, certainly, tending to advocate the incorporation of these changes in future ships. Designers may, it is true, eliminate such of this "progress" as may reasonably be suspected of having contributed to the disaster, but certainly this elimination still leaves the other changes under suspicion.

The argument for abandoning the experiment of these costly "biggest" ships lies in the percentage of error. In experimenting we overlook one failure, we overlook repeated failures, provided some tangible practical knowledge is obtained. But here we have failure amounting to almost 90 per cent. The big ships crumple. The bigger the ship the more lives taken in proving it a failure. The progress illustrated by the Akron lies perhaps in killing more men at one blow than were ever killed before in an air disaster.

The Macon, sister ship to the Akron, should be junked as soon as it is accepted. What? Throw away a ship that cost more than five million dollars without using it? My answer is yes. If it means saving 75 or more lives. Let it not refuse to see the overwhelming percentage that is against us. If the material in the Macon can be utilized in the construction of ships of half its size, then let it be stripped for salvage; but if not, better to write it off as a total loss on the ground than to have it write off the lives of some of our best manhood in the war. The former is easily apparent as the lesser loss.

A COOL PLACE.
Chicago, April 10.—I would suggest that you use your influence to induce some one to build an island out in Lake Michigan off the Chicago shore and have a fine beer garden and summer resort, since legal beer has again returned. It would be a cool place to spend the summer months.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

BLAME LAWYERS FOR FLOOD OF FORECLOSURES

Small Group Assailed at Legislative Quiz.

Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, was the chief witness yesterday before the committee of the state house of representatives investigating receiverships and foreclosures in room 1121 of the county building. He blamed a small clique of lawyers for the flood of foreclosure actions.

"There are about 50 lawyers of the 7,000 in Chicago, who are in the habit of filing bills of foreclosure the moment default occurs," he said. "Such tactics naturally bring cases into court prematurely. So serious has this menace become that in many cases trustees of properties have been forced to file protective foreclosure suits as soon as there is a default in order to conserve property from the hands of this greedy clique."

Cites Big Increase in Suits.

Mr. Pettibone said 15,345 suits involving bond issues totaling $537,185, 363 were filed in Cook county last year. In 1931 10,925 suits were filed involving $471,350,980. In the five years from 1926 to 1930 only 16,410 suits were filed, he said. In the first three months of this year 4,138 suits have been filed.

"Foreclosure suits last year tied up $50,000,000 of property every month, bringing the total for the year to between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000," he said. "The Chicago Title and Trust company in the last three years has had 1,033 receiverships of the total of 17,969 appointments. In some of these the company was appointed and in others individuals. Why the judges acted thus, I would like to know."

Mr. Pettibone was asked by Thomas P. Simeon of Rock Island, chairman of the committee, to suggest remedial measures for presentation to the legislature. Pettibone said he favors amendment of the foreclosure act to shorten foreclosure suits so that in some instances a receiver would be unnecessary. He also suggested that laws be changed so that the judgments of bondholders could compel the minority members to go along with them on a reorganization plan or sell out on some reasonable basis.

Single Bond Owner May Sue.

"As it is now the owner of a $500 bond, which might be bought for $50, is able to tie up $500,000 worth of property," he said. "This adds to the expense and generally makes things miserable for every one."

Mr. Pettibone was questioned by Assistant Attorney General James G. Skinner, who asked him to produce records of the trust company relating to depository fees, costs of receiverships, trustee records, and other information on mortgage bonds. This he promised to do. Mr. Pettibone is to continue on the stand this morning.

Other viewpoints were presented by three witnesses questioned by Assistant Attorney General George S. Levin. Joseph Grunwald, 71 years old, 642 North Parkside avenue, told of having lost $54,000 in mortgage bonds. This represented the savings of 27 years and the losses have made him a pauper, he said.

Denied Time to Pay Bonds.

Abraham Melnick, 5502 North Kimball avenue, owner of a 48 flat building which is in the hands of receiver, recounted the loss of his property. He declared himself a victim of foreclosure rackets, because a slight extension of time would have enabled him to meet payments on bonds.

Alexander Bisio, a real estate man, told of attempts to lease foreclosed apartment hotels. In each case he said he offered a profit to receivers, who were making almost no money, and was turned down. He said he believed the offers were refused because the receiver was interested in employment of managing staffs of the hotels.

BANK IS ACCUSED OF SPECULATING IN BUSBY ASSETS

The stock trading accounts of the late Leonard A. Busby, surface lines executive, were used by his executor, the First Union Trust and Savings bank, to speculate in a falling market immediately after his death in September, 1931. This was the charge made yesterday at a hearing before Probate Judge Harold J. Taylor by Attorney Edward R. Johnston, counsel for Mrs. Esther Busby, the widow, who seeks the removal of the executor and asks that the bank be held responsible for the estate's net losses of $507,344. The estate is now insolvent.

"It is the primary duty of an executor to wind up the estate and reduce the assets to cash," said Attorney Johnston. "It is no part of the executor's duty to increase the estate. The bank says that it used the wisdom of a prudent man in holding on to the speculative securities. We charge that in electing to retain the securities the bank violated its duty to this estate and became a speculator with the stocks."

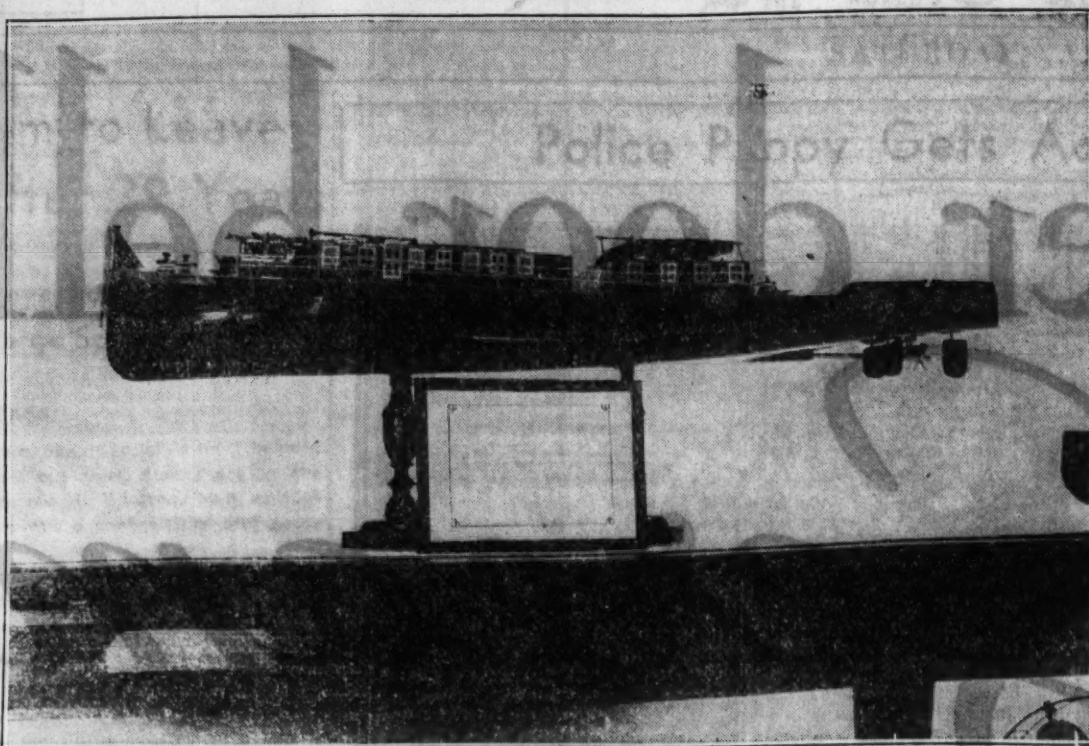

"Our evidence will show that the market was high immediately after Mr. Busby's death when for a month the bank sold nearly one-third of the securities on hand. After that, however, the sales were in dribbles. If liquidation had been completed within six months after his death $325,000 would have been left. Instead the bank still holds a large part of the securities."

TRIBUNE FLEET BATTLING ICE OFF MACKINAC

Due Here Tomorrow with Paper Cargo.

Three ships of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE fleet carrying a combined load of 7,737 tons of newspaper paper for THE TRIBUNE were fighting their way through an ice jam in the Straits of Mackinac last night. The vessels are the steamers New York News and the Thorold and the motorship Chicago Tribune.

The vessels struck the ice jam in the western end of the straits and, led by the whaleback Henry Cort, plowed through one and one-half miles by dusk. Four and one-half miles more of the ice blockade confronted them before they could reach open water in Lake Michigan. The Thorold was first behind the Cort, followed in order by the News and the Tribune. Last reports indicated that the fleet would arrive in Chicago tomorrow afternoon or evening.

The New York News, which left Port Colborne, Ont., on Lake Erie, a week ago, arrived at the Straits of Mackinac last Wednesday. There the ship was confronted by an ice jam in the eastern end of the straits, and, joined by the Henry Cort, started to work its way through the ice.

The Thorold and Chicago Tribune, which had left the home port at Port Colborne after the New York News, caught up with the first two ships and joined the battle against the ice. The four ships headed for the lane used by ferry boats operating between St. Ignace and Mackinaw City and reached this stretch of open water shortly before 5 p. m. yesterday, according to dispatches from Mackinaw City. After traversing this lane the fleet entered the second ice field.

HENNEPIN CANAL HANDLES BARGES FROM MILWAUKEE

Geneseo, Ill., April 14.—(Special)—Three barges laden with machinery to be used in constructing a lock on the inland waterway system at Winona, Minn., passed through this section of the Illinois-Mississippi canal today. It was the largest outfit ever to be locked through the canal, according to employees.

The barges are from Milwaukee, the property of a marine engineering and contracting firm. The tow was started from Illinois some time ago but high water at the junction of the Illinois river with the Illinois-Mississippi canal delayed the entrance of the barges into the canal.

The Illinois-Mississippi canal, also known as the Hennepin, connects the Illinois river near Bureau with the Mississippi river near Rock Island.

OFFERS TO FREE HEIR IF HE JOINS FOREIGN LEGION

J. Clarke Dean Jr., 25 years old, 1500 Lake Shore drive, son of a wealthy Chicago broker, was given an opportunity to join the French Foreign Legion yesterday to escape prosecution on a charge of operating a confidence game.

Dean, who was charged with passing a worthless check for $35 at the Racquet club, 1345 North Dearborn street, was arraigned before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the felony court. Alfred Cronberg, the complainant, announced that restitution had been made and said that he did not wish to prosecute.

"I see no reason why this defendant should be treated differently than others just because he is the son of a wealthy man," Judge Hartigan said. "You will have to continue with the prosecution."

Judge Hartigan announced a recess and went into his chambers. Young Dean told Assistant State's Attorney Irving Clorfen that "his parents had all but disowned him for his escapades."

"I offered to join the Foreign Legion," Dean said, "and father said that would be all right." Judge Hartigan then agreed to continue the case to April 17.

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL FOUGHT AS UTILITY MENACE

400 Million Loss Feared, House Body Told.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—(Special)—Passage of the administration Muscle Shoals bill with provisions for federal construction of transmission lines would make worthless 400 million dollars of outstanding securities of six southern utilities companies, W. L. Wilkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, today told the house military affairs committee. He declared that such a law, in effect, would virtually confiscate the property of the companies concerned and leave them no recourse to constitutional rights.

"Every security holder in New York," he declared, "has sent word to its customers that passage of the bill would ruin their securities. If the purpose of the measure is to distribute the greatest power to the greatest number at the lowest rate, we offer you the means to do it. We will absorb the power as fast as we can. If it is necessary we will contract to carry your power and pass the savings on to the ultimate consumer."

Sees Loss of Market.

Mr. Wilkie reiterated the faith of his companies in the President's development plan for the Tennessee valley, but declared that it would be "worse than a crime" to destroy the existing companies by taking away from them their market.

"The officials of these companies are trustees, and every single dollar of the 400 million dollars outstanding has been approved by a state agency in the state where they were sold," he said. "Thousands of letters have come to us from disturbed investors, and if this bill passes as now written those securities will be destroyed."

Opposition from another source was developed when Charles J. Brand, executive secretary of the National Fertilizer association, insisted that fertilizer could not be manufactured at the Muscle Shoals plant as cheaply as it could be by private industry.

Asks Work on Cumberland.

Representative Brown of Kentucky appeared before the committee to ask that the bill be amended to provide for development of the Cumberland river. He said that a dam near Jamestown would develop 800 million kilowatt hours, which would be sufficient to care for the needs of the state. It would make the river navigable, he added, with a resultant benefit to the mountainous sections of Kentucky.

CENSOR ATTACK AGAINST SENATOR IS CRY OF LONG

Says Charges Should Not Be Privileged.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., April 14.—(Special)—Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana radical, began preparation today of an amendment to the senate rules to prohibit publication of such charges as were aimed at him yesterday in a petition sent to Vice President Garner. The petition was signed by former Gov. John M. Parker of Louisiana, Bull Moose candidate for Vice President in 1916, and other Louisiana citizens, and it demanded Long's dismissal from the senate on numerous grounds of personal unfitness.

Political Foe of Years.

Rising to a point of personal privilege, Senator Long complained that senate rules now permit petitions attacking a senator to be made public. He objected to such documents being privileged. Former Gov. Parker, he said, was a political enemy of a dozen years' standing, and in support of a change in the rule he pointed out to his colleagues that they in their turn might be made the targets of similar attacks.

"If this is to be tolerated by the senate," he said, "then there is no reason on earth why we cannot say that Senator Jones, from the state of X, is the father of 17 illegitimate children, and therefore ask that he be excluded from the senate, or that Senator Smith, from the state of Y, burned down a Catholic church and killed four nuns and therefore ask that he be disbarred from serving in the senate."

Admits It's Privileged Paper.

Senator Long did not doubt that the petition presented against him was a privileged document.

"I am forced to agree that this is a privileged matter," he said. "There is no recourse whatever against the newspapers that publish the proceedings of the senate." At his request, however, the petition was referred to the judiciary committee, where the question of privilege will be considered and to which Senator Long's suggestion of an amended rule will be referred.

March field officials said a high wind evidently blew the craft together. The planes were demolished.

Mrs. Wilhelm Baum to Leave
Residence After 39 YearsFinds World and Society Move Too Fast to Enjoy Entertaining on Large Scale.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS morning Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum, one of society's most beloved and distinguished hostesses, will round out thirty-nine years in the great house her father, the late Frederick H. Winston, built at 1508 State Parkway when Lake Shore drive was a cow pasture and Astor street a burying ground.

With a few of her most treasured belongings she is removing to the Fortnightly club, of which she is the president, and there she plans to remain until summer, when she will go with her son, William Mervyn Baum, to her country home on the lake half way between St. Joe and South Haven. Her city mansion is to assume the earmarks of diplomacy, for after Mrs. Baum's departure today it is to be taken over by the two Japanese royal commissioners to a Century of Progress, Prince Tamaki Kusunoki and Tamao Saeki, who came to Chicago a week ago.

It seems appropriate indeed that the house should become a meeting place for foreign dignitaries and the scene of official parties and dinners. These last four decades it has been the setting for many of society's most brilliant functions and the stopping place of many of the city's distinguished visitors since both the Winstons and the Baums have had an intimate acquaintance in this country and abroad.

Although Mrs. Baum is convinced no other house will be "home" to her in the same sense of the word, it is with a feeling of satisfaction that she is giving it up. "The day of living and entertaining on a large scale is gone," she said yesterday. "Now the world is moving at too rapid a pace. It is too mechanized."

"I am not in favor of the change," she continued. "It isn't that I want to paint myself an old lady, but somehow society, like itself, used to be softer, kinder, more pleasant, and more calm. These last few days I have been thinking back on the times that were."

Little wonder that Mrs. Baum likes to think of those "times that were." With sofa pillows on top of the board walks she used to sit and chat and play with her neighbors. Or in the window of her third floor room she sat and looked out on the pasture that extended eastward from State street to the lake. There the archbishop's cows grazed, and there, also, in a field adjoining, was a burying ground. When the lake swept up over the shore it was common to find remnants of the city's pioneers that had long since been laid to rest.

Early Mansion in That District.

The Baum house was one of the very first near north side mansions at 1508 State Parkway. Mr. Winston, who headed the law firm that still bears his name, decided to leave Superior street (where Mrs. Baum was born) and "into the country." He had knowledge of Boston design the State street house in 1894, just at the close of the city's first World's Fair. Soon there followed in this "new" neighborhood John Reynolds, John Spoor, the Conovers, whose house Henry H. Porter now occupies, the Bartholomews and the Madlens. Today the house is appealingly unmodern. In this lies its greatest charm. The furnishings, even the draperies, are those put into it when it was built. The old gas jets have been electrified. To the left of the reception hall is the book lined drawing room, 48 feet long, then up three or four steps the large dining room and back of this a small conservatory and the great ballroom, room that has been lived in all these years, for it is there that Mrs. Baum has entertained her parties of 40 and 50 and presented musicians, actors and actresses.

Mrs. Baum is leaving the house because her family has dwindled in size. Dr. Baum died little more than a year ago leaving William the only other member of the family at home. Finishing his preparatory school course in the east this June, he will enter the University of Chicago next October.

There is a round of entertainment every summer at the Baum house in Michigan, almost equal to that which the town house has seen. "The only difficulty is getting people there," Mrs. Baum explains. "It's so hard to tell any one where it is. The station is Euston Harbor, but that isn't where it is. The postoffice is South Haven, but that isn't the location. It's a half way between South Haven and St. Joe on the lake."

On hot evenings Mrs. Baum uses the shining white sands for beach suppers by moonlight. Then there are carousals, vegetable gardens, cows, chickens, pigs, and a host of flowers fanned by lake winds, all of these to be enjoyed.

Easter Sales on North Shore.

It will be hard to tell for mothers along the north shore to decide whether to buy their Easter bunnies and bouquets to benefit Christ church in Winnetka or the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest. The women's auxiliaries in both of the parishes are holding their annual Easter sales this afternoon.

The Lake Forest sale, to take place this morning in the village's Ford agency, is something of a tradition. It started almost 30 years ago as a house show with the newly furnished parish receiving all of the benefits. Some years ago, however, when automobiles sounded the knell of horse and carriage, a flower sale was substituted and now this has been supplemented by the sale of children's story books and every kind of Easter goodie a little boy or girl can possibly desire.

Mrs. H. Foster Straw is the general chairman this year, assisted by Mrs. John F. Jelke, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, and Mrs. Gilbert B. Porter. Mrs. Jelke, Mrs. Swift, and Mrs. Porter have all promised to bake their favorite recipes for the sale.

The Christ church sale in Winnetka will begin at 2 o'clock and continue

Police Puppy Gets Admiration

Miss Janet Fairbank and her 5-year-old police dog, Lictor, are two of Copper's greatest admirers and why wouldn't they be for Lictor is his father and Miss Fairbank is Lictor's fond mistress. Copper was chosen as the puppy's name because it seemed a fitting one for the son of Lictor, whose name belonged originally to the Roman public officers who corresponded to our modern policemen. Around the first of June Lictor and Copper will be going to Lake Geneva with Miss Fairbank and the others of the Kellogg Fairbank family to spend the summer there.

Fill Churches
as Rites Mark
Good Friday

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

All Catholic churches and the Protestant churches where Good Friday observances were held yesterday were crowded with worshippers. For the most part, the services were held during the three hours preceding Christ's agony on the cross. The eyes of the devout now are turned toward the dawn of Easter tomorrow morning when the Savior's resurrection will be celebrated.

At the Chicago temple, where the Chicago Church federation joined with the First Methodist Episcopal church yesterday in a three hour service which represented the cooperation of 550 churches of 19 denominations, hundreds of persons were turned away. A quickly planned overflow service was held in church school rooms of the temple, where Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of the Presbyterian "Theological seminary," presided, while Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist area of Chicago was conducting the opening meditation in the temple church.

Bishop Waldorf, in his meditation, said that the crucifixion of Christ is fast becoming the central fact of all history. "All that went on before the cross," said Bishop Waldorf, "so differs from what has come after it that we have been obliged to change the terms and refer to the earlier period as B. C. and the period since as A. D. Since then, life has been flowing into new channels. The central fact of Christ's life. All prior was in preparation for Him. All since Christ are changes of thought, ideal and purpose wrought by Him."

Crowds also overflowed the other local churches where morning services came to a close yesterday. Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago addressed the Good Friday worshippers at the Grand opera house.

Easter festivities will be launched first by the churches of the Greek Orthodox faith. The traditional hour for the beginning of the Easter mysteries in that ancient communion is 1 o'clock tomorrow morning. That hour has been announced by the Rev. Elinores Tsoumoukakis, pastor of St. Andrew's church, 5658 Winchester avenue. A few hours later the early masses will be offered in Catholic churches throughout the city. The climax of Catholic services will be at noon, when Cardinal Mundelein will pontificate at solemn Easter mass at the Holy Name cathedral.

Protestant services will begin at 6 o'clock when young people from all sections of the city will join in a civic sunrise service in the court of honor at the Hall of Science on the Century of Progress exposition grounds. Episcopal eucharists in celebration of the resurrection will begin in most churches of that faith either at 7 or 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. At 11 o'clock the Easter parade will have found its way to the pews of nearly all churches. At that time the greater services of the day will be held.

An Easter floral exhibit in the conservatory at Lincoln park was opened to the public yesterday. Walter Blasing, chief florist, announced that the display would be kept open until 10 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night. More than 18,000 lilies and several thousand roses comprise the main exhibit.

In the mural industries building a star wall depicts the process of working the earth's resources, and in the Hall of Science another group of murals will depict the marvels of micro-people investigation.

The committee working for these exhibits in interior decoration says of the project:

"Gone are the well known goddesses of health and plenty and the plump presences waving wands over an unfamiliar world. Artists here are finding at different meanings in the story of people who work these machines and of modern art from Paris to the Grand canyon on two Sundays, April 23 and April 30, at 8 o'clock. Lyon and Healy's, Marshall Field's and the Palmer house theater ticket agencies are assisting in the sale of tickets."

A group of Chicago artists and New York artists has prepared sketches for murals on these areas. The sketches take their subject matter from the exhibition story of the building; business machines form a pattern of form and color, severed by a strip like a comet's tail which ascends to a black ceiling laden with the human story of people who work these machines and drawn in white on black ground.

A large crimson tree burning against a gold ground diagrams the services of science.

Striking Hats Win Cheers of Easter BuyersHigh Models Continue to Be Favorites.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The last headlines for Easter promenade reveal the headgear situation considerably high hat... the Easter robin's-eye view and all the interested spectators will see some startling creations, altogether different from any review in other years. All this week hat collections have been unpacked, ready for the hat hungry fashionables who are grabbing these delightful new bonnets with more springtime enthusiasm than has been seen for years.

Of course, the dizzy high hats that climb perpendicularly into the Easter air will be the most discussed, and probably attract more of the masculine witticisms than the flatter models, but, however you feel about shocking the delighted watchers, you can find practically any kind of hat that best fits your face.

High hats and not on high hats, "skimmers," merry widow sailors, funny little upturned brimmed affairs and turbans—what else could any one shopper demand? You will find exciting new straw and fabric, audaciously smart plaid and woven braids, flower hats that rival a June garden in full bloom, and feather and fancy trimmed creations without end.

Have you seen the clever creamy white hat that fits snugly and dips a bit madly over the right eye... the straw looks exactly like some knitted fabric, it is so soft and pliable... the hat is made with a sure slipping extension on top that looks like an extra rosette superimposed right on the skull fitting hat, and inside this dainty fashioned rosette nestles a lovely rose with a couple of deep green leaves for contrast.

Then there is a bonnet of the same size that went to the berry bushes for decoration. Perched most unusually on the summit of this black straw are four very lifelike strawberries like-wise accented with the glossy green leaves.

A lovely brown bonnet is wickedly creamy trimmed with canary yellow blossoms, flowers unknown to a botanist but fashioned knowingly by an imaginative hat maker. A long lei of matching yellow flowers and buds is paired with this hat, a daisy that would do grand things for any Easter costume. If you insist upon realism even on your hat, dusky brown-eyed sustains can be used just as effectively.

And though you may have related the gay colorful flowered turbans because they seemed a bit too much, try the black straw hat adroitly trimmed with just a few real flowers... a couple of small poppies, three daisies, very few leaves, and just the right number of blue cornflowers... it is just as delectably decorative as it sounds, and probably will be the pet of your wardrobe.

These are just a few of the distinctively different hats you will discover during the last promenade around the shops before you join the Easter procession.

Good Morning!
Two mighty nice boys in this picture! Big Maurice and little, little Leroy Welphrean. The woman who can make either of them will have that "heart of stone" "Skinny" Ennis sings about.

These alluring males provide the charm, the laughter, the music, which make the film a drawing card. Women in the cast—excepting Helen Twelvetrees, who plays the feminine lead—are more or less incidental. They do capably enough what they have to do, some being to throw assorted fits because a certain Monsieur Baby steals their Rene away from them. Miss Twelvetrees portrays the baby's nurse, who has, of course, the inside track, in her customary wet tulle fashion.

As the picture opens, Monsieur Rene is discovered arriving in Paris after a trip abroad. He breathes deep of the scented air and sighs ecstatically. "Ah-H-H! Paris! Spring! But—his fiancée does not expect him until morning."

One more night to play, la la! He done in on various sirens he has known and dates them up for the evening. Then, driven by a smiling and sympathetic chauffeur, he motors to his residence. "Neither wots that somebody has planted a baby in the car who Rene is making his arrangements and the chauffeur was temporarily absent buying cigars."

Police are called, BUT—what? Zzz! Rene's devoted valet notices the baby's protruding underlip! No mistake—the Rene profile and the Monsieur Baby profile bear a disconcerting resemblance... Rene figures rapidly... Well, learn more of this from the picture...

Anyhow—Rene takes up the duties of a papa with avidity, while sweethearts sulk, valet does handspins of one sort or another, and Miss Twelvetrees turns her eyes up and her mouth down and, of course, lands her fish eventually!

Mr. Chevalier sings several charming songs. And, my DEARS, you SHOULD SEE him putting his [????] baby to sleep—and wheezing his [????] baby in the park... Monsieur Baby is a homely, adorable tyke who says "Dada" with force and feeling and appears to have a sense of humor. Edward Everett Horton is mildly amusing as the valet. Some of the situations are neat and considerable of the dialogue is diverting.

But O, HOW you miss Jeanette MacDonald!

See you tomorrow.

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters; Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, the father—have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior after losing their fortune in Chicago. Great Aunt Letitia, formerly dean of a girls' school in Ohio, is the heiress between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Ned Bremner, hope to build up a great export business. A forest fire brings Blake Lawrence, injured and lost, to the Henderson cottage. There were two great names in nearby Agate Bay and its environs—Lawrence and Greer. When Blake returns to Agate Bay he takes Meryl with him to be his bride. Meryl learns after the wedding ceremony, through Linda, a snubbing cousin of the Lawrences, that Blake married her as an escape from Christine, the wife of Julius Greer, with whom he had been in love. Meryl pretends to return home. Theresa, Blake's sister, persuades her to stay for six months for Blake's sake, whom she still loves, and not to hurt her people. Theresa promises to teach her social service work, Greer at one time saved the Lawrence fortune, and Blake feels honor bound not to interfere with the crooked scheme he knows Greer is engaged in. Meryl believes it is Christine that keeps Blake from fighting Greer.

INSTALLMENT XXX. A MAGIC MOMENT.

Theresa's Christmas eve party for the children of the families she had reached through her work during the year had become an annual event in the Lawrence home. The house on Mount Curve avenue was ablaze with lights and filled with the laughter and shouting of children. Blake, who had always joined in the merriment of the occasion, had failed Theresa for the first time. He had gone directly to the library on his return from the office and had shut himself in. But old Uncle Tom, a benign and over-stuffed Santa Claus, had more than made up for Blake's absence. He had distributed the gifts and the bulging mosquito net stockings and was now bounding about the gayly festooned hall helping Theresa and Meryl as they handled the last half dozen of the children into their wraps for their return to their homes. All but one of the automobiles which Theresa had commandeered among her friends had already left.

Theresa and Uncle Tom had taken five of the children out and Meryl, in the hall, was giving special attention to dressing little Anton Ascewicz snugly against the cold. Anton had recently recovered from scarlet fever. Suddenly and with no warning whatever the child toppled over into her arms.

Meryl cried out with alarm, but both Theresa and Uncle Tom had closed the door behind them and were out of hearing. Blake, however, came hurrying to her aid and in a few seconds had lifted the little boy in his arms and carried him into the library. Meryl ran for a glass of cold water.

When she came into the library Blake was seated on a Chesterfield with the boy still in his arms.

"A little too much excitement, I guess," Blake had said, and began to bathe the boy's temples with the cold water.

The little fellow opened his eyes presently and blinked in pathetic wonderment as he looked up into Blake's face.

"Hello, old man!" Blake said cheerfully. "Merry Christmas!"

Anton was a beautiful child with blond silky hair not unlike Meryl's own. Blake, looking down at him as the color returned faintly to the boy's cheeks, was suddenly aware of that resemblance and experienced a twinge of strange emotion. Just then Meryl glanced up at him. For no reason that she knew she felt a surge of warmth over her throat and face as Blake drew the boy close in his arms. Their eyes met and held for a startling instant.

Then Theresa came in much perturbed.

"He's all right," Blake assured her. "Leave him with me for a few minutes and I'll take him home in my own car."

"I'll have his sisters wait, too, then," Theresa said. "They'd better go home together, or Mrs. Ascewicz will be worried about him."

She went out immediately and Meryl was alone once more with Blake and the child. She was kneeling before them now saying nothing, little Anton's hands between her own. She was thinking only of that instant of communication between herself and Blake during which, as though by magic, everything wrong and ugly had been swept away. But perhaps she had been mistaken, after all, for Blake was himself again, closed and sealed and withdrawn from her. She felt unspeakably bleak and, somehow, as though she had permitted herself to be betrayed by a hope that was eternally false.

"Attabo!" Blake laughed. "Get better now, old fellow?"

"Yes," Anton sighed contentedly and continued to look at Blake with the wondering, passive curiosity of the delicate child.

Theresa came back with the little Ascewicz girls and in a short time Anton seemed none the worse for his experience. While Blake went to get his hat and coat Meryl fought with the impulse to offer to accompany him on the trip with the children.

When he came back and lifted Anton in his arms again it was Theresa who suggested that either she or Meryl should go with him and direct him to the Ascewicz home.

Blake hesitated for a moment. "Don't worry about me. I'll find the place. Put the name and address on a slip of paper there and let me have it."

Theresa snatched a bit of paper from the desk and scribbled for a moment while Blake waited. When she handed him the slip he held it under the light for a moment and read what she had written.

"Ascewicz," he said slowly. "Poles, eh? That reminds me—there were a couple of Finnish boys—friends of yours, Meryl—who lived near you at the Point, weren't there?"

"The Palka boys—Pete and Ola," Meryl said.

"That's the name," Blake replied. "It's not the name, I suppose, to speak of it, but—"

"Has anything happened, Blake?" Meryl asked anxiously.

"News came to the office this afternoon that one of them had died suddenly from a heart attack," he told her.

"O—Blake!" Meryl cried. "Which one? It must have been Ola."

"I think so—Ola Palka. He was the younger of the two, wasn't he?"

"Yes—and delicate," Meryl replied, scarcely able to speak. "When did it happen?"

"Day before yesterday—or the day before that—I've just forgotten. I'm very sorry, Meryl."

"Will you please hurry home with the children?" Theresa spoke up suddenly, seeing the effect the news was having upon Meryl. "You certainly have a knack for picking the wrong time for—"

"For everything," Blake interrupted.

He stood for a moment and looked ruefully at Meryl, then turned away with a muttered imprecation and took the children with him out of the house.

"Was he a close friend of yours, dear?" Theresa asked as soon as Blake had gone.

Meryl was silent for a moment, thinking of the night she had last seen Ola and heard him play "Die Lorelei." Was it some sort of presentiment she had had that night?

"I have known him—"

"He broke off abruptly. "He was really just a neighbor, but—we all loved Ola. He played the violin. I just can't believe he's gone. Theresa. I wonder why Flint hasn't written about it."

"You'll probably get a letter one of these days, dear. In the meantime there's nothing you can do about it."

"Up there—on the shore," Meryl replied pensively. "It seems such a lonely way for him to die. He—well, we always thought he wouldn't live long. He wasn't strong. But it's a shock."

"It's beginning to snow," Uncle Tom declared, appearing unannounced in the doorway and looking indelicately at once in a Santa Claus costume—minus the white beard, which he held in his hand.

Theresa laughed and Meryl, the tears standing in her eyes, threw her arms about the old man and smiled as she kissed him.

She Loves Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am often late for dates, but my girl always waits for me. I told her I love her and when I ask her if she loves me she always replies NO. She has a bad habit of teasing. Do you think she loves me?"

"You don't even have to ask her. Any girl who stands for such tardiness must. This isn't an excusable trait in men, you know."

BEAUTY ANSWERS

If there is any question pertaining to beauty and personal hygiene upon which you desire advice, write to Antoinette Dunne, The Chicago Tribune. Enclose stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply.

RUE: THE DARK HAIRS ON THE legs can be bleached. Apply regularly a solution of two teaspoons of peroxide and one-half teaspoon of ammonia.

Tibbett Will Urge Carpenter to Write an American Opera

Lawrence Tibbett arrived yesterday for rehearsals for his local operatic debut in "Emperor Jones" on May 2, and acknowledged two ambitions. One, to repeat here his recent successes in the east with the music version of Eugene O'Neill's drama. The other is to persuade Chicago's composer, John Alden Carpenter, to write an opera. "Ten performances of the 'Emperor Jones' in New York jured $80,000 into the box office fund," he argued. "That's more money than any opera has made in years. Analyze it and I think you'll find it succeeded because it is 'a good show' from a dramatic standpoint. Most of all, it is in English, and understandable English, so that the audience can follow the action. 'If any one thing more than another has contributed to lack of interest in grand opera, I believe it is the lack of 'punch' in the action, and the inability of audiences to understand what is sung. After his 'Sky-scraper Ballet' I should say that John Alden Carpenter is well able to write a genuine American opera, and I'm going to try and convince him of it tomorrow or as soon as I can see him."

CUBS BATTLE UNDEFEATED PIRATES TODAY

THE GUMPS—THE MAN WHO WALKS ALONE

ROOT TO PITCH AGAINST RIVALS
FOR 1933 FLAG

Final with Cards Is Postponed.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, doped by a majority of the baseball experts of the land to finish first in the National league and established formally by the betting gentry as 7 to 5 favorites, will be on display at Wrigley field this afternoon. They will open a three game series against the Cubs.

Yesterday the Cubs had plenty of time to scheme for their reception of their most highly respected rivals. The final with the St. Louis Cardinals was called off on account of cold and wet grounds, and all the boys had to do was wonder who they will have to bat against today and hope it isn't Bill Swift.

The postponement was more disappointing to the ladies' day customers than to the athletes, but the girls were happy, it is supposed, when they were informed that they can use their crash tickets for the Pirate final next Tuesday.

Win 5 of 8 from Pirates.

While today will give the bugs their first 1933 look at the Pirates, the same cannot be said of the Cubs and their entourage, for the National league champs played the 1932 second placers eight games in California and won five of them.

None of the Cubs' first string pitchers was the loser in any of the three games dropped by the Cubs and in one of the losses Manager Grimm sent his Yarnigans against the Pirate regulars.

The Cubs took the exhibition opener with the Pirates on March 17, 4 to 3, and came back the next day for a rocking 14 to 7 triumph. On the morning of March 19 the Yarnigans lost, 10 to 4. For the first five innings Charley Root, today's pitcher, held the Cubs to one run, but Bud Tinning came on the scene in the sixth and the Pirates made seven runs in Bud's first inning. That afternoon Bush and Warneke got even for the morning doings by working in a game which the Cubs won, 6 to 4, with a two run rally.

Pound Heinie Meine.

On March 29 the Cubs gave the Pirates a 16 to 10 licking, but the next day a homer by Vaughn, who hit one, off Nelson, switched a potential Cub victory to a 6 to 5 trimmings. On April 1 the Cubs won, 12 to 4, four homers off Heinie Meine adding to the Cubs' lead in the series. In the exhibition final the Cubs staged a five run rally in the ninth to throw the game into a 7 to 7 tie, but with Tinning again the victim Gus Suhr, first Pirate up in the tenth, socked a homer for an 8 to 7 Pittsburgh victory. In the spring series the Cubs scored 63 runs to 53 for the Pirates.

The Pirates, though they lost to the Cubs in California, came to Chicago with more tangible assets in so far as National league affairs. They have won two games and lost none and the Cubs have won one and lost one. Obviously the Cubs, to put the Pirates under them in the league standings, will have to sweep the three game series.

Play Cards April 30.

The game scheduled with the Cardinals for yesterday will be played off as part of a double header on Sunday, April 30. The Cardinals on that date will jump back from Pittsburgh for a one day stand. That night the western clubs will have their first five game opening on May 2, the Cubs opening against the Giants, the Cards against the Dodgers, the Pirates against the Phillies, and the Reds against the Braves.

BRITISH TENNIS STARS PROTEST PRENN EXCLUSION

[Copyright by The London Times.]

LONDON, April 14.—S. W. [Bunny] Austin and Fred Perry, Great British leading tennis stars, who left today to compete in the Davis cup play in Spain, have written to the London Times, strongly protesting against the exclusion of Daniel Prehn of the German team on the ground that he is a Jew.

Recalling how Herr Prehn, before a large crowd in Berlin, won for Germany against Great Britain in the semi-final round of the European zone cup play a year ago, they wrote: "We have always valued our participation in international sport because we believed it to be a great opportunity for the promotion of better understanding and because it is a human activity countenancing no distinction of race, class or creed. For this reason, if for no other, we view with misgiving any action which may well undermine all that is most valuable in international competition."

N. U., CHICAGO SHIFT GAMES TO SOLDIERS' FIELD

Three Big 10 Tilts on Fair Program.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Five college football games, two of them regularly scheduled contests in the Western conference, and another important intersectional game, will be played at Soldiers' field during A Century of Progress, it was announced last night by Rufus C. Davis, president of the exposition, who presided at a dinner in the Administration building, where representatives of Chicago's sports organizations, newspapers, and radio stations, President Davies also intimated that other games were under consideration.

RUFUS C. DAVIS.

The Western conference games are Sept. 20—Northwestern vs. Iowa, Oct. 14—Northwestern vs. Stanford, Oct. 28—Chicago vs. Michigan.

These games are but part of a mammoth sports program now being mapped out, which will include forty national championships and several international events. Some of the national events already have been held. Others will not be held on the exposition grounds, but the total of these activities will make Chicago the sports capital of the nation this summer.

Iowa Game Transferred.

Northwestern and Iowa already have agreed to advance their football game one week and move it from Dyche stadium to Soldiers' field. The change in date was to accommodate a request of the American Legion, which will be in session in Chicago at that time. Forty thousand tickets will be set aside for the Legionnaires.

The Chicago-Michigan game, scheduled for Oct. 28, will be moved from Stagg field to Soldiers' field. Thoun N. Metcalf, director of athletics, made the change with the assent of Fielding Yost, Michigan's director. The consent of the Western conference faculty committee, which in general has ruled that home games must be played on home grounds, will be sought at once.

Not since 1926 has a Maroon football team played a home game away from the Midway. In that year Chicago met Michigan in Thanksgiving day in an indoor game at the old Coliseum at 6th street and Stony Island avenue and drew a gate of $10,812, the largest total paid to see a football game in the west up to that time. Previously the Maroons had met Notre Dame and Fordham in indoor games at Tatterhall's Riding academy, 16th and Dearborn streets, and had played several matches at local baseball parks.

All-Star Teams to Play.

Other intercollegiate games are: Mississippi vs. Mexico City university at Soldiers' field on Mississippi day, and an all star game between players representing the central states and the Pacific coast. K. L. Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern, announced that this game will be played on the night of Aug. 24. The Pacific coast team of 22 players will be assembled by Howard Jones, coach of the national collegiate championship eleven, Southern California. Dick Hanley, Northwestern coach, will name the central states squad.

Hanley said outstanding players from the Western conference, Notre Dame and Marquette would be used. The restriction placed on both teams will be that the players must have finished their sports of competition and have not played professional football. Jones will assist Hanley in conducting the Northwestern coaching school from Aug. 14 to Aug. 26. The two teams will drill at Dyche stadium during that time.

Avery Brundage, national A. A. U. president and chairman of the sports committee of A Century of Progress, and J. Lyman Bingham, his assistant, spoke of the events now definitely assigned to Chicago or under consideration contingent on financial arrangements. The exposition committee has appropriated $50,000 for sports, and it is likely an additional $25,000 or $30,000 will be available.

Track Meet at Night.

Mal, John L. Griffith, president of the National Collegiate Athletic association, announced that the annual track and field meet of the association will be held at Soldiers' field June 16 and 17. The interscholastic meet conducted by the University of Chicago will be held on the same dates. Preliminaries for both are scheduled for Friday afternoon, June 16. The high school finals will be contested on Saturday afternoon, while the championships for the colleges will be held on the night of June 17.

Members of the Oxford and Cambridge track and field teams, who will be in the United States at that time have been invited to compete in the National A. A. U. meet on June 20. Twelve outstanding foreign stars, from European countries and Japan, also have been sent invitations to compete. This meet will be held at night. The Women's National A. A. U. meet will be on the afternoon of June 30. The National Junior A. A. U. meet is called for June 29 at Soldiers' field.

BURKE TENTH IN RYDER CUP TEAM POLL

New York, April 14.—(AP)—Bill Burke, the 1931 American open golf champion, whose absence from the 1933 Ryder cup team selections has been criticized by Gene Sarazen and others, was just one place removed from making the American International squad in the final tabulation of votes. This was disclosed today by George R. Jacobus of Ridgewood, N. J., president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

At the same time Jacobus indicated to the Associated Press that there will be no recount in Burke's case, and that he is satisfied the team is sufficiently representative and strong enough to beat the British in the Ryder cup matches abroad in June.

Nine professionals were named for the team by the P. G. A., in a voting contest, in which executives of 25 sectional associations and the national executive committee participated. Burke was tenth in this balloting, tied with John Golden. The surprising feature is the gap of votes between the last team selection, Paul Hagen, a newcomer, and the two veterans.

Here's the result of the national voting, as made public by Jacobus: Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Olin Dutra, and Denmore Shute, 24 each; "pat" for the balloting; Ed Dudley, 20; Craig Wood, 19; Leo Diegel and Horton Smith, each 17; Paul Runyan, 15; Bill Burke and John Golden, 13 each; Johnny Farrell, 12; Al Espinosa, 12. There were some other scattering votes.

The P. G. A. tried out this system of Ryder cup team selection this year for the first time. Each sectional association, 25 in all, submitted a preferred list of 15 professionals. The national executive committee, through its headquarters in Chicago, also voted for its 12 favorites and then tabulated the whole list to extract the leading nine.

As matters stand, the only chance for Burke to make the team is to win the national open championship at Chicago. A place is left for any American home bred, not now on the team list, who wins that event.

Continued Rich Meeting.

The members of the executive committee which Mr. Hertz heads are the Messrs. McCulloch, Florsheim and Wright. The directors had been named at the annual meeting of the stockholders held some time ago.

No mention was made of Arlington's stake race program which was the richest offered by any racing organization in the world last year. The executive committee was empowered to prepare the program which one of the members said "will continue to be the richest offered in the world despite some retrenchments we feel we must make in view of general conditions and the policy to retrench in every line of endeavor."

See Successful Season.

"What will the value of the Classic be?" a member of the executive committee was asked. "Possibly not $70,000," he said, "but it may yet be the richest 3 year old race run anywhere in the country."

"The Arlington Park track will continue to operate on a nonprofit basis for sports sake policy," Mr. McCulloch said.

All of us interested in Arlington Park are optimistic about the outlook for the coming season. We believe Chicago with a Century of Progress exposition under way will be the center of activities throughout America and we hope to offer at Arlington the most attractive racing in the country."

Harry H. Lobell was elected to fill a vacancy on the board of directors.

BOSTON TEAM IN NATIONAL POLO TOURNEY TONIGHT

Visitors Face Riding Club in Half of Twin Bill.

Two members of the 1927 Chicago Riding club polo team, which brought this city its only championship in the history of indoor polo, will appear on different teams tonight in the national title tournament at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

They are Capt. Maxwell M. Corpening, whose 15 goal Riding club trio will battle the 124th Field Artillery Remounts association in the first game of the open or unlimited goal division of the tournament, and Frank Bering, a member of the 13 goal Riding club team, which is matched with the 12 goal Commonwealth entry from Boston, Mass.

The latter match is the final in the class B competition.

Favor Corpening Team.

Although defeated Wednesday night by the Sixth Corps Area trio, a favorite for the class A title, Capt. Corpening and his mates, Lieut. Harry Smith and Prentice Porter, are expected to turn back the Remounts. At least that is the opinion of polo enthusiasts who have been following Corpening's team through its winter competitions.

One reason for the prediction is that the Riding club rates 15 goals as a team, while the Remounts are handicapped at 13. No goals will be spotted to the presumably weaker team, however, because in the open class all teams must play from scratch.

The Remounts will count heavily on the help of George Oliver, six goal player from New York, who arrived yesterday to join the team. Barney Bolding, another experienced player both indoors and out, will complete the Remounts' starting roster.

Bostonians Due Today.

The Commonwealth entry will arrive today, accompanied by George Matthews Jr., vice president of the Indoor Polo Association of America, who will remain through the tournament as a member of the managing committee. The Boston team includes Bill Nichols, Jack Pickering, and Lyle Phillips. Boston, because of its advantage in handicap, will open play with a one goal margin.

Herb Lorber, Bering, and Jim Hansen will ride for the Riding club. The lineup:

GUEST ENTERS TEAM

New York, April 14.—[Special.]

Keener competition than was hitherto looked for in the national indoor polo championship at Chicago was promised today with the arrival from Europe of Winston Guest, leader of the Optimists, kingship of the game for the last several seasons.

Guest, the only player rated at ten goals, immediately reorganized the Optimists, and they are now scheduled to play in the national tournament in Chicago a week from tomorrow.

Guest landed in New York early this morning on the Bremen. Mike Phipps and Steve Liebart, his former mates, will ride with him again.

Black Bill—his real name was Eladio

Valdes—was 27 years old. A protégé of Kid Chocolate, the lightweight, the Negro flyweight first gained recognition in Cuba about two years ago, but an injury soon handicapped him. One of his opponents, so the story runs, snatched his gloves with resin and the powder got into Black Bill's eyes.

By November, 1931, Black Bill's sight was almost gone. His sponsor and other boxing associates staged a benefit for him Nov. 23, 1931. Physicians held out hope for Valdes then, but that hope was abandoned as the months passed.

Last Saturday the boxer's wife, Frances, took their two children out to shop. The boxer, alone in their apartment, shot himself in the abdomen, leaving word for his wife that he preferred death to the blindness that seemed inevitable.

'Better Dead than Blind'; Black Bill Takes Own Life

New York, April 14.—[Special.]

Black Bill, the Harlem flyweight who preferred death to the blindness that forced him from the ring after he had fought his way to contender for the world's championship, retained his wish today. The bullet he fired into his abdomen last Saturday took his life in Harlem hospital just before dawn.

27 COACHES, 15 FROM COLLEGES, SEEK BEAR JOB

Twenty-seven applications for the Chicago Bears' coaching job, vacated when Ralph Jones accepted the athletic directorship at Lake Forest college, have been received by George Halas, president of the Bears.

Of this number 15 were from coaches who already are under contract or affiliated with colleges and universities. Halas announced yesterday that these would receive no consideration, it being the policy of the National league not to interfere in any manner with men under contract.

Halas said he has nobody in mind for the post and that nothing will be done until after the annual meeting of the National league here in July.

JACKIE PURVIS GETS DECISION OVER PHAGAN

Kid Irish Stops Stewart in Third Round.

Jackie Purvis, veteran Indianapolis, Ind., welterweight, won the decision over Johnny Phagan in the eight round windup bout at the Cicero stadium last night. It was Phagan's second defeat in 11 professional bouts. He is a former Golden Gloves champion and last year competed in the International bouts against Germany. Kid Irish, St. Louis, Ill., featherweight, stopped Jackie Stewart, Louisville, Ky., in the third round of the semi-windup, Jerry Crane beat Owen Miller in one of the five round preliminary bouts. Other results: Jack Moran beat Hugh Groshek [51]. Percy Wilson beat Johnny Terry [51]. Bobby O'Dowd beat Jimmy Eshelton [51]. Bob Stone and Walter Mader, draw [51].

The boxing committee of the Central A. A. U. yesterday made arrangements to send its 1933 team to Boston, Mass., next Friday to compete in the National A. A. U. boxing championship meet on April 24. Johnny Behr, coach of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves team, will accompany the boys to Boston. They will include Walter Matthys, Frank Mirabal, Jimmy Christy, Geno Salvatore, Billy Celebron, William Treest, James Johnson and Moss Branner.

Vincent Sereel, New York middleweight, will make his first local appearance against Mickey O'Shea at White City Monday night. It will be his first bout in almost a year. Several years ago Sereel was one of the promising 160 pound boxers in the east. He is expected to receive a test from Jack Moran and Eddie Gill on the same card next end in a knockout. Both are hard punchers and aggressive.

Frankie O'Brien, Hartford, Conn., southpaw, boxed several rounds yesterday at Kid Howard's gymnasium for his eight round match against Marty Sampson at the Chicago Stadium next Friday night. Since beating Tom Jones at White City two months ago O'Brien has engaged in four contests.

He whipped Angel Cliville and knocked out Alabama Kid Johnny Baxter, and Charles Jerome, Nick Scabin, Chicago featherweight, is due today from New York for his six rounder with Joey Palazzone of Detroit.

Johnny Pena returned from Pittsburgh yesterday after battling Jackie Wilson there Thursday. Pittsburgh promoters want Pena to face Jimmy Thomas on May 5. Mike Cantwell, Chicago representative of Max Baer, is to go to New York today to supervise Baer's preparations for the contest against Max Schmeling at New York on June 8. Prince Saunders, Mickey Patrick and Red Chinski, local fighters, are to leave for Dayton, O., today, to box there Monday.

Knockaway, AT 200-1 FOR DERBY, DRILLS SMARTLY
Louisville, Ky., April 14.—[Special.]—Knockaway, an imported Irish horse owned by W. E. Smith, member of the Kentucky state racing commission, and trained by the veteran Jack Weaver, set the tongues of railbirds wagging this morning when he turned in the best trial of the pre-Derby training period.

He breezed one mile and an eighth in 1:57, well in hand all the way with his Derby weight up. The fractional time for the first mile was quarter, 1:18, and mile in 1:44. Knockaway was sent from Ireland as a 2 year old and did not start last year. He is by Knockando out of N. A. A. He is quoted in the future books at 200 to 1. His owner has several tickets on him that should the horse win, will net him more than $100,000.

CUTLER SHOES
CUTLER shoes are NOT cheap shoes. They're low priced shoes. You'll pay ONLY $3.50 for them, but you'll get the greatest value in Chicago.

Ours is the buying POWER of the largest retail shoe store in the world. That store is located in the Palmer House at 111 S. State Street. We've free other neighborhood stores in Chicago. Small wonder that our shoes are so fine; small wonder that we can sell at such a startlingly low price: at $3.50.

We've been building our reputation for 47 years. We'll not ruin it now with shoddy merchandise. The shoe we'll sell to you for $3.50 is a good shoe; you'd pay more for it elsewhere. Its leather is soft and pliable; it is obviously smart and well made; it is tough and sturdy; it will wear a long time.

Ladysman to Get Test Today in Maryland

Havre de Grace, Md., April 14.—[Special.]—W. R. Coe's Ladysman, favorite for the Kentucky Derby, makes his first start here tomorrow, along with other Derby and Preakness candidates in the Bayview purse at six furlongs. Jockey Sonny Workman will ride the son of Pompey.

This is the high point of the opening of the eastern racing season, although the feature is to be the $7,500 Handicap, which has a strong field of thirteen.

The showing of Ladysman will attract nationwide attention tomorrow. He is coming around to the best form of his career and was easily the champion last year. Other Derby candidates in the Bayview are War Glory, Projectile, Utopian, Dark Conquest, and Pompey.

Pilate Gets Top Weight.
It developed today that Workman will ride Ladysman in all his stake engagements.

Andy Schuttlinger's Pilate has been assigned top weight of 126 pounds for the Handicap. S. W. Taber's Tred Avon is next with 118 pounds. Other promising horses in the field are Canon, Pompeius, Osculator, and Con Amore.

The first race introduces maiden 2 year olds in the east and has a list of breeding representatives of the best breeding farms of the country.

ROME IS SENT; PILGRIMS MOURN DEATH OF CHRIST

Pope Carries Sacrament in Procession.

ROME, April 14.—(AP)—Somber black and purple coverings hid the statues and crucifixes in Rome's 400 churches tonight and the priceless works of art in St. Peter's. The Roman Catholic world mourned the death of Christ.

Organs and church bells were silent throughout the day. Between noon and 3 p. m., the hours when Christ hung on the cross, the city's streets were deserted. Every one was either in church or at home.

To signify the confusion of nature over the sad event of 1,900 years ago priests banged with their prayer books on the kneeling benches of the Vatican basilica. Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, presided over Good Friday services there.

The pope earlier in the day said mass in the Sistine chapel. He received an old custom by personally carrying the blessed sacrament in a procession to the tabernacle after it had been exposed in the Pauline chapel. It was the first time in 63 years that a pope had performed this ceremony.

Amusement Places Closed.

Amusement places throughout Italy were closed tonight and the white and gold banner of Vatican state was at half staff during the day.

Traditional observances were carried out in Rome and various other Italian towns and cities. Sermons on the sorrows of the Virgin Mary were delivered as part of special "Maria Desolata" services in the Roman titular churches of Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago and Cardinal Hayes of New York—Santa Maria del Popolo and Santa Maria in Via, respectively.

A great crowd, including thousands of Holy year pilgrims, journeyed to the little town of Grassano to witness Italy's equivalent of the Oberammergau passion play, "Gesa Morio."

Bless Farm Animals.

It began with a lengthy procession representing the tragic journey to Calvary. Bearing a figure of Christ, lying on a bier under a black canopy, the marchers slowly wound their way to the summit of a hill, where three huge crosses had been erected. There they knelt in prayer.

Later came the traditional blessing of farm animals. Oxen, horses, and sheep were led by their owners into the town's chapels and up to the altars, where priests sprinkled them with holy water.

Hundreds of large wooden crosses were borne by black clad men marching through the streets of Merano.

Church bells will ring out the glad tidings of the resurrection at noon tomorrow, when Lent officially ends.

Spain Celebrates Republic.

MADRID, April 14.—(AP)—Spain today celebrated the second anniversary of the second republic. A forty page special edition of the newspaper Sol was brought out commemorating the anniversary, to which President Alfaro Zamora, members of the cabinet and other government leaders contributed articles.

Despite a government authorization to remain open, 45 of the 56 theaters in Madrid were closed.

Reports said that churches all over Spain were crowded for Good Friday services. In Seville groups gathered at the doors of several churches singing religious songs, while near some of the churches anti-communist manifestations were staged. One person was seriously injured and several received slight injuries when police intervened in these disorders.

Soviets Vifly Religion.

MOSCOW, April 14.—(AP)—While the rest of the world went to church today, soviet citizens visited the "Godless museum."

Despite the soviet anti-God propaganda, however, many peasants and workers in soviet went to the remaining churches, some of which had superb singing by picked choirs.

In the museum pieces of wood cut from kitchen tables were labeled "pieces of the real cross." Goat horns were shown with the description that they were "treasured by the monks as ancient relics of the saints."

A few Easter eggs were hawked in the streets.

ACCUSED OF LURING 2 MODELS TO HOME AND TYING THEM UP

White Plains, N. Y., April 14.—(AP)—George Cooper Jr., 25, alleged to have lured two models to his home on the pretext he wanted them to pose, was held in $25,000 bail today on charges of kidnapping and assault.

The models, Mrs. Louise Grothoff and Miss Mary Louise Harper, said Cooper engaged them through an agency, drove them to his home from the railroad station, and then took them to the attic and kept them bound and gagged three hours while he read a book. Later he untied them and drove them back to New York.

Cooper explained he was "too shy to ask a girl for a date" and just wanted their company. He expressed surprise when they brought charges against him, saying they were "perfectly friendly on the way to New York."

The young man was named in four indictments, charging the kidnapping and assault of each model. Judge Clarence B. Coffey, in setting the bail, said kidnapping was "a serious crime" and that he could not go behind the charge. Cooper was unable to raise the bail and was sent to jail.

He had been arrested immediately after the incident and had been at liberty under $10,000 bail.

WHEATON RITES TODAY FOR WIDOW OF REV. MACAFEE

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Macafee, widow of the Rev. William Macafee, who was pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Chicago from 1914 to 1919 before his premature death, will be held at 2 p. m. today at the Gary Methodist Episcopal church in Wheaton.

Mrs. Macafee died yesterday in the Wesley Memorial hospital of an injury she suffered in a fall in her Wheaton home, 215 North Cross street, ten days ago. She was 78 years old.

The Rev. Mr. Macafee died in 1924. He was born in Ireland in 1851, coming to Chicago in 1909, when he became pastor of the First Methodist church of Evanston. He later occupied the pulpit of the First church in Wheaton. On retiring from the pastorate of the big loop church in 1919, he became superintendent of the Chicago southern district of his denomination.

Legion Asks Clothing for Vets in Hospitals

A plea for clothing for veterans in government hospitals was made yesterday by L. R. Benston, department service officer of the American Legion.

"The new economy bill definitely restricts issuance of clothing to veterans in hospitals," Benston said. "A great number of men are actually in need of clothes when discharged from the hospitals. The American Legion therefore is asking persons having serviceable clothing to be discarded, to get in touch with the Legion office, 299 North La Salle street."

GOVERNOR OLSON DENIES POLITICS IN RELIEF ACTION

Replies to Criticism by Senate Leader.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special.)—A charge made on the floor of the Minnesota state senate Thursday by Senator A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota, conservative leader, that Gov. Floyd R. Olson was "playing politics" with the relief measures was answered today by the chief executive.

Gov. Olson, in a speech to a crowd of demonstrators Wednesday, had threatened to declare martial law and confiscate wealth if relief measures he deemed were not passed by the assembly.

Calls Responsibility Joint.

Gov. Olson, in a letter to Senator Rockne, head of the senate finance committee, asserted he "would regret very much to have you believe that there is any political motive in my endeavoring to secure means for protecting the distressed."

"The protection of the needy is a growing responsibility of the executive and legislative departments of our government," Gov. Olson said. "May I not therefore also assume my share of the responsibility for the relief of the distressed?"

Gov. Olson said he "would regret very much to have you believe that there is any political motive in my endeavoring to secure means for protecting the distressed."

Asks Action on Other Bill.

The most important item of all, however, Gov. Olson said, the appropriation of money for direct expenditure by the state itself, which is sought by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, has not been acted upon.

Gov. Olson said in the letter that he quoted in the newspapers would imply that existing statutes give the state executive council, acting as a state board of relief, adequate power to expend state moneys for food and shelter for persons suffering from so-called economic distress," Gov. Olson continued.

CAPTIVE BEATEN IN AUTO SEEN AS KIDNAPING CLEW

A woman's report yesterday that she had seen two men beating a timid man bound with rope in a parked automobile on the outskirts of Park Ridge was regarded by the police as a possible clue to the kidnapping of Peter McKee, 33 years old, gambler and hoodlum, who disappeared in Chicago in 1929, when he was 25 years old.

McKee, 50 years old, telephoned Park Ridge police that he saw the three men in a car parked near his home at Talcott and Canfield roads. Two of them were beating the bound man with revolvers, she said.

The car had been driven away with their victim before police arrived. County highway and state police were ordered to watch outlying roads after police expressed the belief that the kidnapping of McKee may have ended in a gangland raid on Oakley avenue, where he was held for ransom. Burial will be in Eden cemetery. Four other children survive.

AGREE ON PLAN TO REORGANIZE
MIDDLE WEST*Parley with Banks Is Successful.

Stockholders and unsecured creditors of the Middle West Utilities company have come to an agreement with the Chicago banks holding Middle West collateral on a plan looking toward reorganization of the plant holding concern without resorting to bankruptcy.

This announcement was made yesterday by Charles S. Dewey, chairman of the committee representing holders of $10,000,000 of Middle West gold notes, the largest group of the company's unsecured creditors.

Negotiations opened several weeks ago with representatives of the banks, noteholders, preferred and common stockholders participating, have been brought to a successful conclusion and will be submitted to the federal court for approval probably within a fortnight, Mr. Dewey said.

CHARLES S. DEWEY

Participating in the conference, he revealed, were Albert S. Sullivan, vice president of the Continental Illinois National bank; Edward E. Brown, vice president of the First National bank; W. C. Freeman, vice president of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company; Attorney Joseph E. Fleming and Robert N. Golding for the Dewey committee; Attorney Donald McPherson for the preferred stockholders, and Attorney Orville J. Taylor for common stockholders.

Banks Hold Collateral.

The three banks mentioned, together with Halsey-Stuart & Co., are holding $3,300,000 of Middle West collateral as security on loans which the note holders contend the former plant management of Middle West negotiated in violation of a covenant with the noteholders.

While Mr. Dewey declined to disclose details of the agreement in advance of its submission to the court, it was learned that disposition of the disputed collateral is one of the points covered. Without stating what advantage the noteholders had gained, if any, Mr. Dewey said the banks had displayed "a broad minded attitude, showing they were considering the interests of the public and Middle West investors as much as their own."

No discussion has yet been broached as to the funds needed for reorganization, Mr. Dewey said. This question, he said, will be taken up as soon as the agreement over present controversies has been approved by the court, the matter to be handled by a "re-organizing committee" comprising two representatives of the banks, two of the noteholders and one each for the preferred and common stockholders.

Satisfy Public Interest.

Mr. Dewey prefaced his statement with a reference to the considerable public interest in the progress of the negotiations, and said that the statement was issued to apprise the public of the progress.

Aside from this motive, it was learned, members of the Dewey committee and others privy to the negotiations have been concerned with recent speculation in Middle West notes ascribed to them.

Before the negotiations opened, according to reliable reports, those parties interested agreed to refrain from speculating in the notes, so that none might accuse them of profiting by inside information if an agreement failed the market on the notes or a disagreement knocked down the price. The agreement, it is said, was actually reached a week ago. Notwithstanding that the negotiators stood by their pledge, a leak is reported to have occurred and on last Monday morning word went up and down La Salle street that a further agreement had been placed an order for all the notes available at $80 per $1,000 note, or less.

Notes Market Firm.

The notes, which had closed at $77.50 Saturday night, closed at $80.30 Monday and have since been firm. On Thursday, it was learned, the negotiators decided to make the agreement public lest they be accused of profiting by inside information.

Mr. Dewey, whose committee issued a report last November carrying hopes that the note holders would recover 87 cents on the dollar in liquidation, was asked whether he believed the present price of 85 cents on the dollar fairly reflected the present value. The notes are quoted on the New York and Chicago exchanges.

"I don't care to make any prophecy," he said. "Our policy heretofore, however, will be to give the public full information. We will have reports from the Middle West receivers as to earnings of operating companies, condition of loans, and other matters. The public can judge the value of the notes from these reports."

$10,000 Year
Banking Job
Goes Begging

BY HOWARD WOOD.

There's a $10,000 a year job as member of the federal reserve board in Washington for a Chicago banker which is going begging for lack of a taker, according to well authenticated information obtained yesterday.

Four vacancies remain to be filled on the federal reserve board, inasmuch as Chicago for years has been without direct representation on the board the powers in Washington that deal out these jobs recently let it be known that any suitable candidate that Chicago bankers would offer could have a berth on the board.

In normal times there would be plenty of suitable candidates—tired bankers glad of a chance to take things easy and treat the family to a taste of Washington society and ambitious bankers anxious to become nationally known financiers.

Nobody Wants the Job.

But just now nobody wants the job and indications yesterday were that unless somebody trots up a dark horse Chicago's chance for representation on the reserve board this season may go by default.

One former Chicago bank vice president who was approached said he would be glad to have the $10,000 a year income but that unfortunately he was disqualified because he had a lot of money to a number of New York and Chicago member banks and had no money to spare.

Under the rules of the federal reserve system a member of the reserve board may not borrow from a member bank.

Another man to whom the candidacy was offered refused it with thanks, the story goes, because his present job as vice president of a loan bank yields a much better income and he didn't like the idea of belonging to the reserve board at a time when the reserve board members are expected to be merely "yes" men for the treasury department.

Here Are the Qualifications.

And so Chicago financial leaders are still looking for the man to take the job. The searchers say that the candidate should be a banker, because of the death of men with banking experience on the board now. But if no banker can be found a business man may be put up.

In order to get the job, the candidate must be willing to say "yes" to the secretary of the treasury, must be in no danger of being indicted during his term of office, and must have sufficient private income to be satisfied with $10,000 a year.

"If you know of anybody who answers all these qualifications," said one well known financier yesterday, "please mention the name."

TRADE SHOWING SPRING IMPETUS, REVIEWS REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 14.—Influenced by the expanding force of an upward trend, developments this week "have contributed constructively to the broader forward movement in nearly all branches of trade," Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

The review stated, "by the appearance of indices to show that expansion now is resting on a solid basis, which will certify it against any abrupt setback or recession other than those of brief duration. The banking situation still is operating as a retarding factor in many directions, but the effects of the moratorium gradually are disappearing in many directions."

While the retail trade expansion during the week was most marked in wholesale and retail distribution, there was a reflection of higher manufacturing schedules in the increase in the number of employees and the decrease in number of relief beneficiaries, which dropped for the first time since fall.

Retail buying this week was the largest since Christmas shopping season, and that of the earlier days of December, the review said.

"The rebound in steel operations is particularly significant, as it is viewed as a reflection of the more rapid pace at which general commercial activity is moving," it continues.

Studebaker Officials Say

United States Smelting, Refining, and Mining.

Will you kindly inform me relative to the standing of United States Smelting? I would like very much to know how you consider it as an investment.—J. E.

United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company is well diversified in the metal industry. It mines silver in Mexico, gold in Alaska, and lead and zinc in Utah. In addition it operates smelters and refineries both for the ore it produces and that produced by other companies.

In common with most other companies engaged in extraction of minerals net income has declined during the last three years. In contrast to other companies it operated at a profit during 1932.

Net income for the first two months of 1933 was $278,000, or 1 cent per common share, against net of $243,000, or 11 cents per common share, for the corresponding 1932 period.

Net for the full 1932 year was $1,995,000, which was 1.22 times preferred dividends and equal to 64 cents per common share. Net for 1931 was $2,505,000, which was 1.46 times preferred dividends and equal to $1.48 per common share.

Net for 1930 was $3,700,000, against $4,819,000 for 1929 and $4,097,000 for 1928.

Comparatively favorable operations during 1932 and 1931 were probably due to increased gold operations, as low prices quoted for other metals made attainment of profits in those lines improbable. In 1932 the company produced 350,000 ounces of gold, a new peak, against 314,765 in 1931 and 325,968 in 1930. It mined about 25,000,000 ounces of silver, against 24,699,647 in 1931 and 26,959,176 in 1930.

The company finished the year with current assets of $14,840,000 and current liabilities of $2,274,000. Cash and United States government bonds alone were almost $7,000,000. Working capital was $12,567,000, against $12,550,000 the year before.

Subsidiary funded debt of $119,000 is nominal. Minority interest totals $1,293,000. There are outstanding 468,748 shares of 7 per cent $50 preferred and 528,765 shares of $50 par common. The common pays 26 cents a quarter.

The preferred is medium grade. The common is speculative at present.

A. T. & T. EARNS
$1 A SHARE IN FIRST QUARTER*Fewer Telephones Are Disconnected.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company earned approximately $1 a share in the first quarter this year, Walter S. Gifford, president, announced last night. The report was one of the first from the big corporation on first quarter operations.

The $1 figure represents the actual profit per share of the system making allowance for the dividends received by the parent company from subsidiaries which were not fully earned. Earnings, including subsidiary dividends not wholly earned, amounted to 72 cents a share for the quarter as compared with 52 cents a share in the first three months of 1932. Total net income on this basis was $32,555,000 against $28,839,000 last year.

Pay $42 Million Dividend.

The figures were made public as the company today distributes approximately $42 million in dividends to its stockholders at the quarterly rate of 22.5 cents a share.

Whether the first quarter results will mean the abandonment of the 39 annual dividend rate which the company has maintained throughout the depression will not be known until the directors meet next month for action on the dividend due July 1. The company stands alone among the great corporations in its depression dividend record.

President Gifford points out in his statement that the earnings of the system in the three months ended March 31 were at the annual rate of $25,900 less than the actual net profit of $5.56 in 1932. He makes no mention of future dividend policy, however.

Fewer Telephones Disconnected.

"Compared with the preceding quarter," he said, "there were fewer telephones disconnected during the quarter just ended, but as there also were fewer new telephones installed there was a net loss in the three months of 34,000 telephones. On March 31 there were 13,450,000 Bell system telephones in service, which was 25,000 less than the maximum number reached in 1930.

The detailed income account for the quarter follows:

Operating income	$38,174,161	$37,184,965
Interest	5,320,400	5,320,400
Operating exp.	(24,639,823)	(24,639,823)
Other exp.	(32,555,000)	(32,555,000)
Net income	$8,879,531	$9,265,227

Dividends declared $41,984,247 $41,984,247

Charged against net income $38,879,531 | $38,879,531 || Unappropriated surplus | $1,104,716 | $1,104,716 |

Net income per share $2.08

Subject to minor changes when final figures are for March and April 1933.

The companies which paid these dividends did not as a whole fully cash them by about $5,000,000 in the first quarter and $7,500,000 in the 1933 quarter.

CHICAGO YELLOW
CAB NETS $624,408
PROFIT LAST YEAR

Chicago Yellow Cab company's annual statement issued yesterday showed net income of $624,408, as compared with $1,056,634 in 1931. The net is equivalent to $1.54 a share on the 400,000 shares outstanding, against $2.64 in the preceding year.

The Dec. 31 balance sheet lists current assets of $1,301,000, including cash of $1,054,000, against current liabilities of $147,200. The company's net worth is $1,153,800, against $1,153,800 in 1931. Real estate and leaseholdings are carried at $601,698, as compared with $322,413 at the end of 1931.

PRICES OF HOGS GAIN A TIME MEAGER SUPPLY

Cattle Hold About Steady; Lambs Advance.

A meager flow of hogs yesterday in the market of 500 to 600 head registered in the day, but most were in the buying side and some of the gains were soon erased. It was evident that the advance was a forced one, as weakness persisted almost from the start. The close was about in line with the high point of Thursday's trade.

After direct shipments had been deducted from the receipts, only 7,000 head of hogs remained on the market. The eastern outlet is below normal, but yesterday's orders were slightly larger than they were previously this week. This served to stir some activity in the best grades of light animals during the first rounds of trading.

Top sales at $4.14. Top sales advanced to $4.14, which was equal to the highest price since Monday, last week, and within 10 cents of the highest market since March 24. The general average moved up 10 cents to $3.80. Both prices were 20 cents above last week's close.

Only 1,000 cattle were unloaded on the market yesterday, which was about the usual Friday run. Quality was plain and buyers were not very anxious for the kinds available. Consequently, a quiet and somewhat weak trade developed in the bulk of supply. However, grades scored previously by were held, with sales in all divisions unevenly higher than a week ago. Calves were an exception to the general rule. They closed 50 cents lower than a week ago.

Five steers topped the market at $5.50 yesterday, but the highest price for load lots halted at $5.15. The bulk of the supply consisted of 425 to 525 pounds.

Average Movement Expected.

While there are more cattle on feed for market in the corn belt states than a year ago, the movement into spring to market and to northern pastures from the southwest—Texas, New Mexico and Arizona—will be about 700,000 head of cattle and calves. This is the same number as last spring.

According to a survey of that region made by the government recently, this estimated number compares with 673,000 for the spring season (March to June inclusive), in 1931, and with a five year average of 573,000. In the spring of 1933, the movement was 1,094,000.

Another bulge in the lamb market yesterday carried medium and heavy "fodder" stock to the highest point of the week. Light and hand weights still are 10 to 15 cents lower than earlier in the week. Trading was lively in all divisions, with the clearance good.

Gains of 15 to 25 cents were found in $5 to 100 pound averages that sold at $5.50 to $5.50. City butchers and shippers paid up to $5.65 for 90 pounders.

The plan contemplates the creation of a new corporation which will acquire the properties and assets of Booth Fisheries Company of Delaware. The new corporation would issue four classes of stock and operate a business with a small amount of fixed capital, consisting principally of current liabilities incurred since the liquidation of the company.

Obligations of the company in excess of $374,000, including first mortgage bonds, would be funded under the plan by the issuance of shares of stock of the new company.
